PLOT TO OVERTHROW VENEZUELA RULERS NIPPED IN THE BUD

Assassination of President Juan Vincente Gomez Was Frustrated by Arrest of Gen. Delgado Chalbaud

MANY PROMINENT MEN FLED FROM COUNTRY

President's Assassination Was Planned to Take Place at the Inauguration of the Venezuelan Automobile Club

(By Associated Press.)

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, June 13.—Details of the recent political disturbances in Venezuela, where a large number of prominent men were imprisoned or took to flight following accusations of conspiracy against the government, reached here today.

It is stated that a plot to assassinate President Juan Vicente Gomez, was frustrated by the imprisonment of General Delgado Chalband and a number of his friends. The plot was to have been carried out at the inauguration of the Venezuelan Automobile club a few weeks ago.

An announcement of the government says:

"The plot was uncovered through General Manuel Corao, who flatly refused to join in the conspiracy. When invited to become a party to the plot he started toward Miraflores palace to inform the president of his danger. On his way he was shot at, but escaped injury. The information he gave to the president led to the imprisonment of the plotters."

In circles in which General Chalband is well known, it is said there was no plot of any kind against Gomez. The president is declared to have imprisoned General Chalband because of jealousy and fear that he might become a candidate for the presidency next April.

In connection with the approaching campaign for the presidency, there is much speculation in Caracas. Many believe that Gomez will try to succeed himself, although such action is contrary to the constitution. If this is impossible, he will endeavor to secure the election of one of his trusted friends. In either event, it is considered certain that some trouble will follow.

Should disorder break out, General Gomez has a great many things in his favor. The army is in splendid condition. The officers are loyal to him and there is plenty of money in the government treasury. Besides these advantages on the side of the administration, merchants in Venezuela who are at present enjoying great prosperity, are not inclined to support any movement which would interfere with their welfare.

The recent trouble between President Gomez and the federal council (composed of ten of the best known military leaders of Venezuela) arose over an agreement with France which was rejected by the council, although subsequently approved by congress. President Gomez resented the opposition of councillors and prevailed on congress to pass a law providing that the substitute of each councillor could be called upon to serve even during the presence in Caracas of the councillor himself. Several of the councillors, scenting danger to themselves, in this manner, took to flight, and the remainder of them employed men to guard their residences.

VICE PROBE'S RESUMED BY GRAND JURY FRIDAY

Was Mixed With Routine Work—Jury Adjourns Until Tuesday

Despite the fact that about 30 bills were returned in routine cases, the Fulton country grand jury is said to have resumed the vice probe Friday morning.

It is known that Attorney R. R. Jackson, who has represented several who ben against whom vice charges have been made by the police, was before the jury, and he is said to have answered questions dealing with the vice situation generally.

The attorney was questioned especially as to the practice of lawyers in secured injunctions preventing the police from raiding houses, which have come under the suspicion of the morals squad.

Mr. Jackson explained the nature of the injunctions and told of the manner in which they are secured on ex-parte hearings.

The jury adjourned until Tuesday when it is expected the probe will be resumed.

MOTORCYCLIST HITS A NEGRO; BOTH INJURED

C. A. Cabe, switchman, employed on the Southern Railway, seriously injured Edward Stewart, negro, when he ran into him with a motorcycle at Marietta and Thurmond streets Friday morning at 11 o'clock. The black was taken to the Grady hospital in an ambulance. Cabe was arrested on a charge of reckless riding.

The black who is employed by the Stein Junk company near the scene of the accident, sustained a severe wound of the abdomen, some sharp part of the machine penetrating almost to the stomach. Cabe fell from the motorcycle at the time the collision and was bruised slightly.

Three Women Attack Man and His Wife Cops Arrest All Five

Policemen interceded and called a halt on a battle royal in which a man and his wife withstood the onslaughts of three women neighbors near Fort McPherson Thursday afternoon. The final decision in the bout will be rendered by Recorder Broyles Friday afternoon when the five participants face him on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Those against whom charges have been made are: Clarence Barnes and his wife, Pearl, of 13 Murphy avenue; and Mrs. Hicks, Mrs. Hattie Crash and Mrs. Marguerite Long, all of 15 Murphy avenue.

According to Policeman Ryan, who with Officer Head took the five fighters into custody, the bout was well under way when they arrived on the scene, although there had been no casualties. Two of the participants were injured in various ways, however, it is said. All of the women are wives of soldiers.

GOVERNMENT INSPECTOR PROBES SPEER'S RECORD

Personal Representative of Attorney General Digging Up History of Federal Judge

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MACON, Ga., June 13.—Inspector J. T. Lewis, personal representative of Attorney General McReynolds, of the department of justice at Washington, is in Macon investigating the judicial records of Judge Emory Speer from the time he went to the federal bench, twenty-eight years ago, to the present. The knowledge of his presence here was not known until last night.

Inspector Lewis has been here for a week probing newspaper court records, looking over court data that has been kept in the federal building here for the past twenty-eight years. He is making his investigation thorough. He is going after information in and out of Macon, interviewing everybody that has had any connection whatever with the federal court in the last score of years. Wherever he gains information that he thinks will be of value to him, he gets an affidavit. His investigation will likely continue for the next several weeks, if not longer.

It was reported that Inspector Lewis was here for the purpose of probing the facts in the recent Huff bankruptcy case, which has been in the federal court for the past fourteen years, but this report is denied. It was learned definitely today that the inspector is here investigating the complete judicial records of Judge Speer.

Just what information Inspector Lewis has gained since he began the investigation is not known.

Probably Fiercest Battle Since American Occupation, Say Cabled Descriptions of Hot Engagement With Moros

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 13.—"Probably no fiercer battle since American occupation," is the description by Brigadier General Pershing, of the battle with the Moros yesterday, in his report by cable today to the war department.

The Moros made desperate attempts to rush the American lines, but were finally beaten back and overwhelmed. Their leader, Amil, and several other noted outlaws, were reported killed, but the total loss of the Moros was not reported.

One American officer, Taylor A. Nichols, of the Philippine Scouts, was killed; First Lieutenant Edwin H. Rackley, Philippine Scouts, was wounded, and three Philippine Scouts of the Fifty-first company, all natives, were killed.

General Pershing's report was as follows:

"On June 12 the Moros' resistance at Bagsag was formidable, and their forts and trenches on the precipitous side of the crater not only supported each other strongly but were defended with modern arms. The Moros fanatically and continuously tried to rush the American lines, but the careful disposition of our forces held the American loss to a minimum. Probably there has been no fiercer battle since American occupation.

HOW BATTLE WAS FOUGHT.

"Major George C. Shaw, of the Philippine Scouts, commanded the right wing with Company M, Eighth regiment, U. S. infantry, and Fortieth company, Philippine Scouts. Captain Taylor A. Nichols of the Philippine Scouts, commanded the left wing with the Fifty-first, Fifty-second and Twenty-ninth companies, Philippine Scouts. A mountain gun was with each wing and proved of great assistance. At the close of yesterday's fighting Captain Patrick Moylan, of the Philippine Scouts, with two companies was supporting the gun on Mount Bunga, and the American force occupied a controlling position on the rim o fthe crater.

"First Lieutenant Edwin H. Rackley, Philippine Scouts, was slightly wounded, and three Moro scouts of the Fifty-first

MARTIAL LAW LIFTED IN STRIKE ZONE AS PROBE GETS ACTIVE

Governor Hatfield, of West Virginia, Says He Inherited the Mine Strike Controversy From Glasscock

(By Associated Press.)

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 13.—Former Governor Glasscock was present at the hearing of the senate committee investigating mining conditions in this state expecting to give today what is considered important testimony.

There was some delay in splitting the committee preparatory to taking the former governor's testimony and Major Thomas B. Davis, who was with the troops when the soldiers were in charge at Paint and Cabin Creek districts, took the stand.

Governor Hatfield issued a proclamation ending martial law today and the few soldiers who still were on guard were withdrawn.

Major Thomas B. Davis denied that he had ever interfered with the miners getting their mail.

"We had to keep those men from crowding around the railroad station and we made them disperse," he said. "But no one who said he was going for mail was interfered with."

The major said he imposed $283 in fines on miners at Eskdale.

"Most of these men I fined were working miners, not strikers, who were bringing whisky into the martial law zone," said Major Davis.

Major Davis said that as marshal of the provost court he had been instructed to try miner offenders and to send other prisoners over the military committee at headquarters for trial.

With comparatively few strikers still in the strike zone, Paint and Cabin Creeks were quiet and orderly and the civil authorities again were in charge of affairs.

The proposition of dividing the inquiry and allowing the senators in charge of the various divisions to proceed individually to examine witnesses, encountered opposition from the attorneys representing the operators who said they could not maintain their case before more than one committee at a time. Their objections apparently made little impression on the committee.

Governor Hatfield's letter declining to furnish the committee with the records of cases tried before the last military commission was discussed by the committee today and while no formal action was taken, it was practically agreed that no further steps should be taken toward demanding the records.

Yesterday's visit to Cabin and Paint Creeks, the heart of the mine disturbances, convinced the committee that conditions in the strike regions now are practically settled and Chairman Swanson declared an effort would be made to conclude the hearing as soon as possible.

LUTHER Z. ROSSER DECLARES DETECTIVES DARE NOT PERMIT JIM CONLEY TO TALK FREELY

PUBLIC INVITED TO UNDERPASS MEETING

Committee Confers With Railroads in City Hall at 11 o'Clock Saturday A. M.

The special committee appointed to formulate a plan for closing the underpasses in Forsyth street bridge will meet in city hall Saturday morning at 11 o'clock and all who are interested in the project are asked to be present. The meeting will be on the third floor, in the committee room on the left of the hall.

This important project, which has been pending before city council for several years, has a very important bearing on the crowded traffic on streets in the center of the city.

Closing the underpasses will virtually amount to throwing open a new street through the heart of the city from north to south, as the underpasses now render the bridge almost impassable.

Therefore the committee hopes and expects that the meeting Saturday will be largely attended, since the project affects not only the property owners having an immediate interest, but the general public as well.

At a recent meeting the committee obtained the consent of President Winburn, o fthe Central of Georgia railroad, for the roadway across the Central's property to be used temporarily when the underpasses are closed. In order to use this roadway, however, the consent of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad, as lessee of the Western and Atlantic, must be obtained.

The meeting Saturday is primarily for the purpose of conferring with N. C. & St. L. officials. J. W. Thomas, the president of the road, or his personal representative, will be present. And officials of the Central also will take part in the conference.

"Conley and His Counsel Are Wise—Their Hope Is That the Detectives Will Save Negro From a Confession, Giving Him Immunity, Provided He Continues to Put Guilt on Frank"

Several sensational points are contained in the written answer which Rosser & Brandon, attorneys for Leo M. Frank, made Friday morning to the rule nisi issued by Judge L. S. Roan calling upon Leo M. Frank, Newt Lee, or any other person suspected of the murder of Mary Phagan, or any citizen of the state of Georgia, to show cause why James Conley, the negro sweeper, should not be released as a material witness.

This answer was filed by Attorney Rosser, who referred to it as a "protest" and who asked that it be made a part of the court record. In it the attorneys for Frank declare that "to enact the farce in the court's presence of releasing the negro and immediately return him to his wet nurses at the police station would resemble child's play."

The intimation is very clearly made that the solicitor general and the detectives wish to keep Conley in their custody at police headquarters in order that they may bolster up his sworn confessions and that they dare not let the negro talk freely for fear that he may destroy the value of "one of a number of contradictory statements made by him."

"That the detectives should wish to keep Conley in custody and entertain him at the city's expense is not at all surprising," says the answer. "They have already extracted from him extravagant, unthinkable confessions, three or four in number. To these statements they have given the widest publicity, and to the credibility of the last one they have staked their reputations and hope of place.

"Upon the constancy and stability of this witness they have staked their

CONLEY IS PRISONER OF CITY DETECTIVES, NOT OF STATE, NOW

Conley Says His Attorney Believes Idea of Transfer Originated With Friends of Frank, to Harm Him

JUSTICE WARRANT MAY ROB DORSEY OF VICTORY

As Negro Is Held Simply on Suspicion, Any Citizen Might Secure Transfer to Tower on J. P. Warrant

James Conley, the negro sweeper, passed from the custody of the superior court Friday morning, and Solicitor General Dorsey won the first legal point in the prosecution of Leo M. Frank, who has been indicted for the murder of Mary Phagan.

Judge L. S. Roan, after a short hearing, which commenced in his chambers at 10 o'clock, granted the solicitor's petition that the court's former orders holding Conley as a material witness in the case against Frank, be revoked, thus preventing his transfer to the county jail.

When the court's action became formally known at police headquarters Conley was released and immediately rearrested on a charge of "suspicion," and put back in his old cell, where he claims he is afforded protection from friends of Frank, who, he allegos, annoyed him when he was in the Tower.

Judge Roan in opening the hearing remarked that he would have granted the solicitor's petition instanter had it not been for the unusual excitement about the case. He had issued a rule nisi calling upon any one who so desired to protest the solicitor's petition, he said, simply out of an abundance of caution.

The court said the only point at issue was whether or not Conley is a material witness in the case.

Present were Luther Z. Rosser, chief counsel for Frank; Stiles Hopkins, of Mr. Rosser's law firm; Bernard L. Chappell, counsel for Newt Lee; William M. Smith, counsel for Conley, and several attorneys not identified with the case.

The court asked these gentlemen if anyone desires to make the point that Conley is a material witness in the case.

While the solicitor has openly stated that Conley is a material witness, he naturally did not make the point before the court.

DECLINED TO MAKE POINT.

Attorney Rosser said that he did not care to say that the negro was material to him.

He stated that he wished to formally file an answer to the rule nisi, with which he had been served, and to make his answer a part of the record in the case.

Attorney Smith said that he wished to file an answer for Conley to the rule, and both papers were placed on the table before the court.

Mr. Rosser spoke of the announced intention of the solicitor to immediately rearrest the negro, and characterized the procedure as farcical, saying that there is a "right way and a wrong way" to hold the negro.

When no one made the point that Conley is a material witness the court granted the solicitor's petition.

Had the solicitor's petition not been granted Conley would have been transferred during the day to the county jail, where he claims he fears that physical and legal harm might be done, and

SILVER ANNIVERSARY OF WILLIAM'S REIGN

Festivities Open in Berlin Commemorating Quarter-Century Reign of Emperor

(By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, June 13.—The festivities in connection with the completion next Sunday of the twenty-fifth year of the reign of Emperor William opened this afternoon with a review of Imperial Automobile club, the military volunteer automobile corps and other automobile organizations on the "army chaussee" in the western suburbs of Berlin.

Headed by rinPce Henry, of Prussia, commander of the corps, and the duke of Ratibor, president of the automobile clubs, hundreds of decorated motor cars were reviewed by his majesty. The duke of Ratibor then presented the first of the innumerable addresses which the emperor is to receive on his jubilee.

Joseph C. Grewe and Willing Spencer, secretaries of the American embassy, drive their own cars past the reviewing stand.

The emperor and empress afterward proceeded to the stadium erected for the next Olympic games, to witness a jubilee equestrian tourney.

Seven thousand school children gathered in the castle court this morning and rehearsed the songs with which they will wake their majesties on Monday morning.

The city of Berlin has appropriated $25,000 for the decoration of the streets. Of this sum $15,000 is to be spent on Unter den Linden, which already has taken on a very gay appearance.

On Sunday, the day of the real silver jubilee anniversary, many fete celebrations will occur, as it marks the date of the anniversary of the death of the emperor's father, Frederick III.

NO NOTICE OF FAILURE OF WATSON AND COMPANY

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 12.—While the steamship Olinda with a fire in her hold was standing by the Olinda, giving asscost last Monday, her sister ship, the Curityba, was only a few miles away drifting helpless in a terrific storm. The Curityba reached this port today about the time the Olinda was reported approaching Savannah.

Passengers on the Curityba said that for twelve hours she was adrift, while the engineers struggled to repair the machinery damaged by the explosion of a high pressure valve. Finally a makeshift sail was rigged up on the aftermast and the ship was kept under control until the engines were repaired.

While this was happening the report in New York was that the Curityba was standing by the Olinda, giving assistance. The Curityba with thirty-five passengers and a cargo of fruit was bound thither from Cuban ports. The Olinda was from New York, headed for Cuba. Both vessels are chartered by the Munson Line.

NO RIOTING PROBABLE, REPORTS THE SHERIFF

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 12.—A special dispatch to the Savannah Press from Beaufort, S. C., states that Sheriff White, with Captain Townsend and a company of the naval militia, who went to Bluffton last midnight to assist in preventing a clash there which was reported to be imminent between whites and negroes, returned to Beaufort today and reported they found no evidences of a race riot in Bluffton.

The trouble in Bluffton yesterday was caused by the killing of a negro, who had been arrested on suspicion of attempting to assault a white woman. According to reports, the negro was shot when he attempted to escape from his captors.

MANDAMUS ON MAYOR; WON'T MUZZLE DOGS

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 13.—George H. Richter, a prominent attorney who was bitten by a dog on Monday, today filed a mandamus in the superior court to force Mayor R. J. Davant to enforce the city ordinance which prevents unmuzzled dogs running at large in the streets. He says he requested the mayor to enforce the ordinance and was told that he could not do it.

"What are you going to do about it?" Richter says the mayor asked him. Not liking this Tammany-like query, Richter proceeded to mandamus his honor. The case is set for July 5.

Dying From Wreck Injuries, Reporter Sends Big Story In

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 13.—Gregory T. Humes, of this city, who died today in the hospital at Stamford, Conn., retained above all else, his sense of news when terribly crushed yesterday in the wreck which caused the death of six persons and the injury of about twenty more on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad near the Stamford station.

Humes, a reporter on the staff of the World, was returning from a visit to his mother at Pine Orchard, Conn., and was a passenger in the Pullman car which was telescoped by the electric engine of a train behind.

When Humes was carried out of the wreck, suffering from a crushed pelvis and compound fractures of both ankles, as well as painful internal injuries he said to those who were carrying him:

"Call up my paper right away and tell them there is a wreck here—a big story. Tell them I am sorry I won't be able to work because I am smashed up. Call up my mother, too."

Having done his duty—the first thing that flashed into his newspaper mind—he collapsed and has been unconscious and in a critical condition ever since.

Six Are Killed in Wreck On the New Haven Railroad

STAMFORD, Conn., June 13.—One more death was added to the list of the victims in the collision of the first and second sections of the Springfield express here late yesterday, making the total six. Gregory Hume, a newspaper man employed by the New York World, died this morning.

The woman's body which was not identified last night, is that of Mrs. W. H. Seeley, wife of the manager of the industrial bureau of the New Haven railroad.

The condition of seven passengers who are at the Stamford hospital was good this morning. All of them will recover.

The corrected list of dead from the wreck follows:

MRS. EDWIN J. KELLY, Winthrope, Massachusetts.

EVERETT H. WOODRUFF, Fushing, Long Island.

DR. HAMMON G. HOWE, Hartford, Connecticutt.

FRANK K. CONFIELD, Springfield, Masachusetts.

MRS. W. H. SEELEY, Boston.

GREGORY HUME, New York City.

All the wreckage was removed during the night and the scene showed few traces of the disaster this morning.

The inquiry into the collision was started before daybreak.

Engineer Charles Doherty, of the colliding train, who could not be found last night, was at his home in New Haven this morning and sent word that he would appear at the inquest.

Thorough investigation of the New Haven train wreck near Stamford, Conn., probably including public hearings before a commissioner, will be made by the interstate commerce commission. Plans for beginning it were started today.

Inspectors H. D. Lyon, F. A. Howard and J. S. Hawley already are on the ground preparing a report on which future proceedings will be based.

SISTER SHIP OF OLINDA DRIFTING HELPLESS

(By Associated Press.)

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 13.—A special from Dayton, the location of the blast furnaces of the Dayton Coal and Iron company, states that no official notice of the failure of James Watson & Co., of Glasgow, Scotland, has been received by the officials of the blast furnaces and for that reason it is not believed that operations of these will be affected in the immediate future. James Watson & Co., are not sole owners of the Dayton furnaces, but merely stockholders in the Dayton Coal & Iron Co., which owns the furnaces. The furnaces are in full blast and are doing a profitable business.

FRISCO PROBE TO BEGIN IN ST. LOUIS

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 13.—The preliminary investigation by the interstate commerce commission of the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad receivership will begin in St. Louis. Agents of the commission called at the New York offices of the road today and ascertained that most of the records desired were at St. Louis headquarters. Other agents of the commission will take up the work there at once.

SUGAR LOBBY USED U. S. MAIL FRANKS

Sugar Representatives Paid for Printing, but Uncle Sam Paid Postage

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Beet sugar interests and their efforts to retain a protective duty on sugar were again under scrutiny when the senate lobby investigating committee today resumed hearings.

The extent to which public documents had been circulated in behalf of the campaign to retain the sugar protective tariff again occupied much of the attention of the committee.

While the sugar representatives paid for the printing of most of the documents, the fact that they had been presented as "public documents" by senators or representatives made it possible for them to be circulated through the mails without the payment of postage.

Senator Gallinger told the committee he had no interests outside of a "little rocky farm in New Hampshire," where he raised hay and apples. He knew of no improper influences or lobbying methods.

"During my public life of four years in the house and twenty-two years in the senate," he said, "I have never been approached by any one in behalf of any legislation that seemed to me improper.

"So long as men can properly exert influence to secure legislation as has been done in very high quarters, it ought to be permitted to the interested parties to use personal appeal in opposition to that legislation," said he.

Chairman Overman asked Senator Gallinger for his opinion on the changing of a public document after it had been ordered printed by the senate. It developed in the testimony yesterday that such a thing had been done in a document franked by Senator Lodge.

"I would consider that absolutely indefensible, if not criminal," returned Senator Gallinger.

STATE COURT REJECTS HARRIS CASE VERDICT

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ROME, Ga., June 13.—The court of appeals has reversed a verdict in Floyd city court in the case of Mrs. J. H. Harris, who obtained damages against the city of Rome in the sum of $1,500. The case was a very interesting one, due to a direct conflict in medical testimony. Some o fthe physicians maintained the malaria from which Mrs. Harris suffered was due to the proximity of an undrained pond, and that the responsibility therefor rested upon the city.

Other physicians took a directly opposite view, and so secure upon the stand. A jury in Floyd city court gave her damages of $1,500. Judge John H. Reece refused to grant a new trial. City Attorney Meyerhardt thereupon carried the case to the court of appeals, and obtained the second trial prayed for by the city.

Tries to Kill Wife And Mother-in-Law But Kills Himself

(By Associated Press.)

ROME, Ga., June 13.—After making an unsuccessful attempt upon the lives of his wife and her mother, Mrs. Martha Jeff, late Thursday, Charles Robinson, local factory employe, blew out his brains with a revolver.

It is said that Robinson, who has been separated from his wife for some time, called her from her mother's house for a conference, and immediately opened fire, wounding her in the shoulder.

Mrs. Jeff, attracted by the shot, appeared in the door of her residence, and was also fired on, a bullet severing one of her fingers. Robinson then turned his weapon upon himself. Mrs. Robinson will recover.

THE ATLANTA JOURNAL'S $7,000 BOOKLOVERS' CAMPAIGN.

The Plan and How You Can Enter

The Journal is publishing seventy-five pictures, each representing the title of one book.

Seven thousand dollars' worth of prizes will be given to those who can select the most correct titles.

Every contestant has the right to ten answers on each picture.

The Journal's new Official Catalogue contains all the titles used.

The Answer Book gives you the right to ten answers, using only one of each picture. With the Answer Book The Journal will give you the first thirty-five prize pictures free.

The Answer Book will cost 50c at the office, 90c by mail. The Catalogue sells for 25c at the office, 27c by mail. Use the coupons in ordering. Extra pictures cost 2c each.

Enter now, and get in line for your share of the $7,000.

The Campaign is open to all residents of Georgia, Alabama, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee.

EXERCISE YOUR RIGHT TO EXTRA ANSWERS.

Now that we are nearing the close of this delightful Booklovers' Campaign, we wish to impress on the minds of all contestants who desire a prize to exercise all their rights to extra answers. Do not, in the closing days of the Campaign, eliminate some of the best answers by cutting down to one or two answers on each picture. That is the sure way to cut out enough correct answers to eliminate yourself from your share of the $7,000.

Remember, you are entitled to ten answers on each picture, and unless you are ABSOLUTELY SURE you have the correct answer use the full limit of ten where you think it necessary. Remember that the grand prize winners in all Booklovers' Campaigns are those who use plenty of answers. As The Journal has an Answer Book giving you the right to ten answers on each picture instead of the old Booklovers' plan of a picture with only one answer, it will only cost you 90c to exercise your rights to the full 750 answers if you think you need that many to win.

Cut this out and keep it until the prize winning list is published and then you will know we are giving you honest advice.

C. F. MANER DROPS DEAD WHILE WATCHING "MOVIE"

Employe of Elkin Drug Company Died Friday Morning in Alcazar Theater

C. F. Maner, aged 64 years, a collector for the Elkin Drug company, dropped dead about 11 o'clock Friday morning in the Alcazar motion picture theatre, where he was watching a film entitled, "Wamba, A Child of the Jungle."

Mr. Maner had just left the drug company office about 5 minutes before he entered the theatre. He had been with the company a number of years and was held in high esteem by its officials.

Enterin gthe Alcazar he took a seat on the left side, three rows from the back. He had been there but a few moments when an usher noticed that he was drooped far over in his seat. The usher shook him by the shoulder, thinking the man was asleep. When all efforts failed to rouse him, several patrons aided in carry Mr. Maner into the foyer. An ambulance was called, but physicians declared that he had been dead for several minutes before they examined him.

Heart failure is believed to have been the cause of his death. A coroner's inquest will be held some time during Friday at H. M. Patterson's chapel, whither the body was taken.

Mr. Maner lived at 396 South Moreland avenue. He is survived by his wife, one son, Charles Maner, and a daughter, Mrs. Dr. S. P. Warnick. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

VALIDITY OF DODD WILL IS SUSTAINED

Ordinary Wilkinson Overrules Relatives; Mercer Bequest of $100,000 Stands

The validity of the will of the late Mrs. Barbara Dodd, who left the bulk of her estate valued at $120,000 to Mercer university, was sustained by Judge Wilkinson in ordinary's court Friday. The court overruled the caveat of the relatives which set up that Mrs. Dodd had made the will while under the hallucination that her relatives had wronged her.

In the original caveat, filed by Mrs. Barbara Dibble, Mrs. Fannie A. Ackerman, Oscar C., Thomas M., George, Malcom and Henry E. Dibble, it was asserted that Mrs. Dodd became possessed of the mania immediately after she had divorced her second husband, J. H. Garner.

While temporarily unbalanced from her unfortunate married experience, the caveat maintained, Mrs. Dodd sought her relatives and tried to induce them to kill Garner. Because she was refused, it is asserted, she became indignant and made the will leaving them practically nothing.

A greater part of these charges were stricken by the contestants in an amended caveat filed before the case was called for hearing Friday morning.

Few witnesses were put up for either side and the decision means that the case will be fought out before a jury in superior court unless a compromise is effected. C. P. Goree and George Westmoreland appeared for the propounders of the will, and Luther Z. Rosser and Alex King for the caveators.

Mrs. Dodd, who died suddenly at the Aragon hotel two months ago, was the widow of the late Philip Dodd, one time prominent Atlanta merchant. Her will left Mercer university close to $100,000 and numerous bequests were made to Atlanta charitable institutions.

Henry E. Dibble, a brother, now blind, who has joined in the contest of the will, was left $5,000.

CRAZY NEGRESS ATTACKS SURGEON AT OPERATION

Grady Hospital Doctor Interferes in Time to Save Dr. Hardin

Dr. L. B. Cousins, house physician at the Grady hospital, overpowered a crazed negro woman as she was about to plunge a knife into the back of Dr. Robert Hardin, house surgeon, in the operating room of the hospital Thursday night at 9 o'clock. Both doctors escaped uninjured, but had Dr. Cousins been a few moments later in his interference it is probable that Dr. Hardin would have been fatally wounded.

Mary Strickland is the negress who attempted the stabbing. She is now held in the police station.

The woman accompanied to the hospital another negress who had been stabbed in Cain street. After an examination, Dr. Hardin decided that an operation was necessary to save the life of the Strickland woman's companion. The latter was placed on an operating table.

Dr. Hardin told the Strickland negress that she would have to leave the operating room.

With a curse, the woman refused to go. Dr. Hardin seized her arm and led her to the door. He then returned to the operating table to begin the surgery. A moment after he had turned his back the negress drew a gleaming knife from beneath her dress and approached him on tiptoe. Just as she was poised to plunge the gleaming knife blade into the unsuspecting surgeon's back, Dr. Cousins saw her and seized her wrist.

With the assistance of others who rushed in at the sound of a struggle the woman finally was overpowered and led from the room. She attracted two score pedestrians, however, by her screeching and cursing. Emergency Policemen Milam and Wood were going by on their motorcycles and were called in to help subdue the woman.

FORSYTH—Vaudeville.
BIJOU—Vaudeville and Pictures.

Signor Travato ,the eccentric violinist at the Forsyth this week, is sharing honors with the hit makers of the season. Travato is a genius. He is a past master in music, and his violin work is winning applause from people who generally are not interested in music. He does rag time stunts that no other violinist has attempted.

The act of Rohem's Athletic Girls has attracted attention. There are five pretty girls in the company. They open their act with a fencing exhibition, and then two of the prettiest show famous blows of former and present champions of the prize ring, following with two bouts that show that girls are equal to the accomplishment of self defense. After some bag punching, there is a wrestling match.

Johnny Burke and his partner, and Chick Sale ,the character comedian, help the bill, making it one of the strongest and cleverest of the season.

Bud Fisher, the cartoonist who draws "Mutt and Jeff" is the headline of the bill for next week, and will draw sketches of the characters he has made famous. Another feature will be "The Lawn Party" with ten clever youngsters who like impersonations. Another star act will be the appearance of pretty Pauline Welch in songs and dances.

There is interest in the coming engagement of "Quo Wadis," the wonderful photo-play at the Grand next week. The advance sale is on at the box office at the Grand. Numerous reservations have been made. In one block of reservations are 88 young people who have been acquainted with the details of the marvelous work of the Societa Italiana Cines of Rome, where the 10,000 feet of film was made. During 18 months the society labored in preparing the sensational pictures.

This is not an ordinary motion picture exhibition, but the most wonderful accomplishment yet credited to the famous Cines people. The film has been seen for more than one hundred performances at the Astor theatre in New York City, and is crowding the McVickers in Chicago and the Garrick in Philadelphia. The exhibition continues two and a quarter hours, in three acts and eight scenes, with intermissions to permit the mechanical department to adjust the imported projecting machines used by experts.

The first exhibition will be given on Monday afternoon at 2:30 and the first night exhibition at 8:30 on Monday night. Thereafter through the week there will be daily matinee and evening performances. Reserved seats are sold for every performance, just as for a regular play.

"Quo Vadis," one of the greatest novels of the times, was dramatized, and scored a wonderful success; but the success of the motion picture production has eclipsed everything else that has been done with "Quo Vadis."

"Hiram of the Cabaret" is making new records at the popular Bijou, and the capacity of the little Marietta street theater is being tested at every performance. During the balance of the engagement, matinees will be given daily at 3 o'clock as usual, and two matinees on Saturday at 2:30 and 4. Night shows are given at 7:30 and 9 o'clock.

Interest is manifest in next week's attraction, "The Duke of Durham," a tabloid musical comedy that has scored heavily all over the circuit. The attraction will feature Lon. L. Shean, the inimitable German singing comedian; the American Comedy Four, a splendid quartet of male voices; Callahan & Klein song dance and chatter, and Smith & Pollock, in the Tango dance. A large chorus will be one of the features of the performance.

MRS. KELLAR REPUDIATES CONFESSION OF MURDER

Woman Who Said She Killed Husband and Daughter Denies It Now

(By Associated Press.)

HARRISONVILLE, Mo., June 13.—Mrs. Ida May Kellar, who yesterday confessed in the presence of sheriff, county prosecutor and coroner, that she killed her husband, Arthur Kellar, and their seven-year-old daughter, Marazet, Tuesday with an axe, today repudiated the confession, saying that a detective who investigated the murders "scared it out of her."

QUITMAN STILL WAITS FOR NEW POSTOFFICE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

QUITMAN, Ga., June 13.—Quitman has had a potent example of the long delays of the government in the matter of the new postoffice building. This building was included in the appropriation budget passed about two years ago, and as soon as it was announced that Quitman had been awarded an appropriation of $10,000 for a postoffice it seemed an accomplished fact.

A lot was bought by the government next to the Hotel Marie, and in order to give the required space, W. J. Powell, owner of the hotel, sold part of the lot the hotel stands on and agreed to move the hotel annex now on this strip of land.

Recently the government has begun collecting rent from Mr. Powell for this part of the lot and Postmaster Griffin has received notice in this connection that the lot will not be needed by the government until the latter part of 1914. From which it will appear that Quitman has about two more years to wait for the glory of the new building.

FEED OF PRISONERS TO LEAD TO NEW CONTEST

County Board Fixes 30 Cents Per Day Per Prisoner, Sheriff Asks More

The matter of the feeding of the prisoners at the Fulton jail (the "Tower") has come into the limelight again as the result of the action of the board of county commissioners Thursday, when a resolution fixing the sheriff's remuneration at 30 cents per day per prisoner was passed with the provision that it be in effect from January 1 of this year to December 31.

Under the contract in force in 1912 the sheriff received 45 cents per day per prisoner, and on January 1, when the salary law became effective, the county took over the dieting of the prisoners, eliminating the sheriff.

When the salary law was declared unconstitutional, Sheriff Mangum states that the board of commissioner agreed that he should be paid 45 cents per day per prisoner minus the expenses incurred by the commissioners while the dieting of the men was in their charge.

This agreement, according to the sheriff, was to hold until the board could make a new contract with him for the feeding of the men, or, in other words, up to the date of Thursday's meeting, when the board set the figure of a new contract.

As the board was able to feed the prisoners for much less than 45 cents a day, this agreement means a handsome profit to the sheriff's office, which the sheriff considers n the light of a fee.

Now, however, Sheriff Mangum declares that he is going to contest the portion of the resolution holding that a 30 cents contract be in force from January 1, and asked that 45 cents be allowed up to and through this month.

TRUSTEES TAKE CHARGE OF RAOUL FOUNDATION FUND

Mrs. F. G. Hodgson Named President—Plans for Using Fund Discussed

The William Greene Raoul foundation fund for the prevention of tuberculosis has been turned over to the board of trustees by the executors and plans will be made at once to carry on the work for which it was intended.

The board of trustees met Thursday night at the home of Mr. Thomas K. Glenn, and elected the following officers: Mrs. F. G. Hodgson, president; John K. Ottley, vice president; Thomas K. Glenn, treasurer, and R. J. Guinn, secretary.

At this time the $50,000 bequest left by Mr. Raoul following his death last January, was formally handed over to the trustees. Plans for using the fund in the best manner possible were discussed at length, and immediate steps were taken to put it to practical use.

MIGHT TAKE WARRANT.

While apparently the court's action leaves the negro in the custody of the police until the solicitor decides to indict him as an accessory after the fact of Mary Phagan's murder, technically there is no charge against him, and now there is no legal obstacle in the way of any citizen's obtaining a justice court warrant against Conley, charging him either with the murder of Mary Phagan or with being an accessory after the fact.

Should such a warrant be drawn, the solicitor will lose the point he gained Friday morning, and the negro will necessarily be transferred to the Tower.

While there has been no intimation that any warrant will be drawn against Conley, it is quite apparent that any one desiring to see the negro transferred to the Tower can take this course.

CONLEY'S BRIEF FREEDOM.

At 11:45 o'clock Friday morning Conley was led from his cell to the desk sergeant's office, where Sergeant Holcomb placed "Released June 13, 1913, by order of Judge L. S. Roan, of the superior court, Stone Mountain circuit," by the negro's name on the docket.

Then a "free man," Conley walked out of the station house door into the automobile, closely followed by Chief Lanford.

For about twenty paces the free negro walked, then then he hit the Decatur street sidewalk.

By some peculiar chance Detective McGill was there, and the detective immediately spotted in Conley a suspicious personage.

Detective McGill walked over to the negro and formally placed him under arrest. He was led back before the desk sergeant, where he was again docketed, the charge against him being "suspicion." The negro's arrest was credited to Chief Lanford, Detectives McGill and Coker, who first took Conley in custody.

Going back to his cell Conley remarked to Chief Lanford that if the court and the detectives had both released him that he would have requested the permission of the authorities to remain at headquarters as a "sleeper."

"I want to stay right here," the negro told the officer.

NEGRO'S ANSWER.

The answer of the negro, James Conley, to the rule nisi, which was filed with the court by William M. Smith, his attorney, gives fully the negro's reasons for desiring to remain at police headquarters rather than the tower.

Conley answers a rule in the case of "The state versus Leo M. Frank, indicted for murder."

The negro sets out that he is now confined in the police prison at his own request and by advice of his counsel, and that there he is protected from legal as well as physical harm. He occupies a solitary cell block and no one is allowed to talk to him except by consent of himself and counsel and in this way "he is protected from legal harm by anyone who might seek to damn him by false claims as to statements alleged to have been made by respondent (Conley)."

The negro says that he is willing to remain indefinitely a prisoner in solitary confinement, subject to the orders of the court. He admits that he is a material witness in behalf of the state in "this case" and admits that it is proper that he should be held until the final outcome of this case or any other growing out of the murder of Miss Mary Phagan.

He alleges that he is held in complete and perfect imprisonment and that there is no possible theory that the ends of justice will be thwarted if there exists no order of the superior court holding him.

Relative to the movement to transfer him to the county jail Conley says in his answer: "This respondent is advised by his counsel and it is the belief of his counsel that the idea of transfer back to the county prison has under it plans laid by persons unfriendly to the interests of this respondent and friendly to the interests of the defendant (Frank) in this case."

While exonorating the sheriff, Conley declares that the conditions at the county jail are such that the interests of justice as far as he is concerned cannot be well safeguarded, and that his interest and the interest of justice would be threatened by his transfer to the tower.

He alleges that in the power an insufficient force of inside guards has been provided by the county authorities, and only one man is paid to guard twenty cell blocks distributed over five floors, and that it is a physical impossibility for one man to know what is going on on all five of these floors.

The keys of practically all cell blocks, he alleges are in the hands of convicted criminals known as "trusties," who also prepare and distribute the food in the jail.

EASY TO REACH HIM.

Under these conditions he alleges it would be easy for anyone to reach and harm him or to poison him through his food. He alleges that the friends of Frank are allowed to pour into the prison during the day and until a late hour at night, and that some of these friends are in close touch with the "trusties."

Conley alleges that while he was in the Tower many people whom he did not desire to see were admitted to his cell block.

Among these visitors, Conley alleges in his answer, was one whom "this respondent (Conley) has every reason to believe was working in the interest of the defendant (Frank)."

Conley alleges that this party presented him with a sandwich, which he was afraid to eat and also offered him whisky, which Conley alleges he refused.

The county jail he was threatened with physical harm to the extent of the possibility of taking his life, and that relative to his testimony in the case he was denounced as a liar.

These occurrences he attributes not to any neglect of the sheriff, but to the physical construction of the Tower and an inadequate force of guards.

Conley sets out that in the Tower he is in close association with other prisoners, among whom are desperate criminals, and for that reason he says he might suffer great legal harm through these men falsely swearing that he had made incriminating admissions. One of these men is a convicted murderer, he says, and would be willing to swear anything to prolong his own life.

Conley declares that he is advised and believes that one of the parties friendly to Frank is already priming himself to swear that he (Conley) made certain admissions while on the county jail, which he did not make, and which testimony will be false, and will be given, if given at all, to help the defendant (Frank) and injure the respondent (Conley).

The last paragraph of Conley's answer to the rule nisi deals with his attitude towards the sheriff and reads as follows:

ATTITUDE TOWARD SHERIFF.

"That respondent is advised and believes that the sheriff of this county has publicly proclaimed that the defendant (Frank) looks him in the eye like an innocent man; that the sheriff has given said defendant an entire cell block and has isolated him completely except from his friends; that the sheriff has expressed himself as not desiring that nigger returned to the county prison, meaning respondent; that the sheriff appears to feel the requests made by respondent are meant as a reflection upon the sheriff, but same was not so intended to be construed, nor was same so requested by respondent and in the transfer, nor was any such allegation made before the court at the time of the passage of the second order transferring respondent back to the city prison, nor does respondent believe that same was in the mind of the court, at the time of the passage of the order or influenced the court; but that the inadequate force of the sheriff and the construction of the jail rendered this request by respondent necessary, and same was made to this court, with no statement of facts, other than it was requested by respondent and in the judgment of the representative of the state there was necessity for same.

"Wherefore this respondent agrees, to the passage of an order revoking former orders in this case, and waives his presence at the court, upon a hearing of same.

"WM. M. SMITH,
"Attorney for James Conley."

NEGRO QUESTIONED.

Thursday afternoon Detectives Starnes and Campbell had a long talk with Conley in his cell at headquarters. The negro, according to Chief Lanford's report, reiterated his former statements, charging the Mary Phagan murder to Frank.

Chief Lanford has given out the following statement, replying he says, to an instinuation contained in the card of Luther Z. Rosser, counsel for Frank.

"It makes no difference how much the reward for the conviction of Mary Phagan's murderer may be, neither the members of this department nor myself will accept any portion of it. This position, which I have taken in the matter, meets the approval of my men.

"If this department can dispose of the money appropriated for a reward, it will go towards the erection of a monument over the body of the slain child."

Sheriff Wheeler Mangum has made a general denial of the allegations of Conley's answer to the rule nisi, in which Conley charged that he was not properly protected while in the tower.

The sheriff declares that all prisoners who come under his care are amply and well protected, and that he spares no effort to prevent any harm, physical or legal, coming to them while they are his prisoners.

BRITISH MINISTERS ARE ABSOLVED FROM BLAME

Parliamentary Committee Holds Cabinet Members Blameless in Scandals

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, June 13.—British cabinet ministers were today absolved by the parliamentary committee from all blame in connection with the scandals alleged to have surrounded the contracts between the British government and the Marconi wireless company.

The report of the committee which investigated the affair was issued today. It declares that there is no foundation for any of the charges made against Attorney General Sir Rufus D. Isaacs, chancellor of the Exchequer David Lloyd-George, or Postmaster General Herbert L. Samuels. The committee finds that all the ministers concerned acted throughout in the sincere belief that there was nothing in their action which would conflict with their duty as minister of the crown.

The report further says that "no evidence was given showing that any member of the British government exercised any influence to procure the contract for the English Marconi company, or in any way acted contrary to the public interest in behalf of that company or used knowledge in his official capacity for his private profit, or was in any wise concerned in any dealings in the shares of the company."

The report in conclusion strongly condemns the publication of charges which were "absolutely untrue and which those responsible for their circulation had no reason to believe true."

The foregoing extracts are from the majority report. The minority of the parliamentary committee was composed of Liberal and Radical members of parliament. It is understood that there will be minority reports but these have not yet been made public.

JEROME JONES SAID TO FAVOR CITY BOND ISSUE

Resigns From Committee Owing to Illness, and Samuel Brady Succeeds Him

Jerome Jones, editor of The Journal of Labor, has resigned from the special bond issue committee created by a resolution of council, and Mayor Pro-Tem Warren has appointed Samuel Brady, another well-known labor man, in his place.

Mr. Jones does not resign, it is understood, because he opposes the suggestion of a bond issue. On the contrary he informed Councilman Thomson, the chairman of the committee, that he is personally and editorially in favor of bonds to meet the pressing needs of the city government. His resignation is made necessary by an illness which has confined him at home some time, and he will shortly leave the city for a vacation during which he hopes to recuperate.

The committee did not meet Thursday afternoon because there was not a quorum present. Councilman Thomson postponed the meeting until next Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The committee is composed of ten members of council representing the ten different wards of the city, and five citizens from the city at large.

JONES COUNTY COURT IS NOT IN FEAR OF MOBS

State Supreme Court Upholds Refusal of Judge to Grant Venue Change

In a decision handed down Friday morning the supreme court of the state of Georgia sustained the ruling of a Jones county judge in refusing a change of venue for Nick Winburn, charged with murder, on the grounds that in the opinion of the trial judge there were not sufficient reason for the change, in the evidence submitted before him.

The change of venue was asked on the grounds that mob violence was threatened and that the defendant could not receive a fair trial at the hands of a jury in the county where the crime was committed. The fact that a letter of the "black hand" variety, written to a third party, threatened any one who offered legal assistance to the prisoner, was offered as evidence of the intense feeling, but its authorship could not be shown and it was, therefore, denied consideration.

The court held that the judge was correct in his belief that there was no danger of mob violence and, therefore, there were no stable grounds for the granting of the petition.

To the Traveling Men of Georgia

We want to get in touch with a good many traveling men throughout Georgia, men that are now selling to the general store, in the smaller towns, and also making the country stores. We are trying to reach the men that travel their trade regularly. You can carry our sample in your vest pocket, and it will only take a minute or so, after you have finished with your customer. Our goods are advertised, and repeat wherever placed. What we will pay will help out nicely, and help you overcome that high cost of living. This is a traveling man talking to you, and he knows. You can make from $50.00 to $75.00 every month in the year without half trying. A sample to every traveling man that answers. Give me your permanent address.

The Strangest Thing in the World Is Human Nature

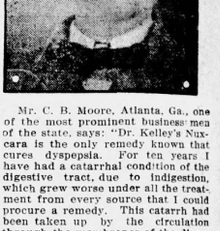
It has been said that there is something good in everyone, and a notable truth is that big minds and big hearts go together. They enjoy helping their fellow man. We see this trait of character manifested in the history of man from the time Moses raised the brazen serpent in the wilderness to the present day. The early Christians suffered martyrdom to teach a great truth to their fellow man, and instances might be multiplied indefinitely. Every day some big-minded, big-hearted fellow says: "Let me tell the world about Nuxcara. It cured me, and it is the only remedy known that cures every case. I want to tell those who suffer with indigestion, dyspepsia and catarrh to take Nuxcara and get well and strong.

Go to Coursey & Munn, 29 Marietta, or Edmondson Drug company, 11 North Broad street.

Full treatment, six bottles, $5.00; three bottles, $2.50; one bottle, $1.00.

We pay charges on out-of-town orders of $2.50 up.

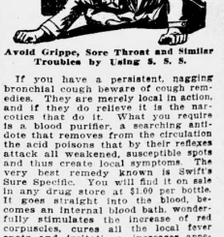
J. H. Shellnutt, at Coursey & Munn's, will tell you about Nuxcara.



Mr. C. B. Moore, Atlanta, Ga., one of the most prominent business men of the state, says: "Dr. Kelley's Nuxcara is the only remedy known that cures every case. This catarrh had been taken up by the circulation through the membranes of the digestive system, and localized in the nasal cavities, which gave me a great deal of trouble. It became very uneasy about my liver and kidneys, which gave me trouble from the same cause. I took Nuxcara a few months and cured my dyspepsia and all traces of catarrh. My general health improved rapidly. I grew strong and sound; in fact, my health is perfect."—(Advt.)

Lungs Affected By Rheumatism

Pneumonia, Bronchitis, Asthma and Anemia Often Directly the Results of Rheumatic Blood.



Avoid Grippe, Sore Throat and Similar Troubles by Using S. S. S.

If you have a persistent, nagging bronchial cough beware of cough remedies. They are merely local in action, and if they do relieve it is the narcotics that do it. What you require is a blood purifier, a searching antidote that removes from the circulation the acrid poisons that by their careless attack all weakened, susceptible spots and thus create local symptoms. The very best remedy known is Swift's Sure Specific. You will find it on sale in any drug store at $1.00 per bottle. It goes straight into the blood, becomes an invigorating bath, wonderfully stimulates the increase of red corpuscles, cures all the local sore spots and irritations, increases appetite, you take on flesh and feel a wonderful sense of renewed strength. Hundreds of people worried beyond control at cough, pains in the chest, sore throat and constant expectoration of thick mucous have experienced the most wonderful change after using S. S. S. All doubt and apprehension is gone, the pains, those pesky aches vanish, there follows a period of most intense rejoicing to find that their fears were based entirely upon a mistaken notion that cough and chest pains come from the lungs. These are rheumatic conditions, and you will quickly realize it after using S. S. S. for a few days. Get a bottle of S. S. S. to-day at the drug store and then say good-bye to all those pains that have worried you.

"SEGREGATION" LAW IS COMMENDED TO COUNCIL

Police Committee Reports Favorably on Plan to Separate Races in Residence Sections

The police committee of council on Thursday afternoon voted to recommend to council the enactment of the Ashley "segregation ordinance," which is intended to separate the white and colored races in residence sections.

The term "segregation" is really a misnomer, since the ordinance does not undertake to prescribe a particular section in which negroes must live, nor undertake to define limits in which negroes shall not live.

It provides that negroes shall not live in a block where the majority of the white residents object, and that whites shall not live in a block where a majority of the negroes object.

Eugene Mitchell, former president of the board of education; B. Lee Smith, member of the police board from the Fourth ward; L. C. Green, member of the park board from the Fourth ward, and other citizens appeared before the committee in support of the ordinance.

They declared that the encroachment of negroes in the Fourth ward has ruined the value of property on street after street, and that feeling among the white people is growing intense.

Rev. H. H. Proctor, the negro preacher, and J. T. Rucker, the negro who formerly was United States collector of internal revenue for this district, headed a delegation of negroes to object to the ordinance.

Scarlet Fever and Bright's Disease

Many cases of Bright's Disease, particularly in young people, have a history of scarlet fever. It seems to leave the kidneys in such a condition in many cases that Bright's Disease later on is a common sequel. It is important to note that some of the quickest recoveries made in cases of Bright's Disease by Fulton's Renal Compound have been cases in which scarlet fever was a precursor.

One physician reported recovery in two cases in his practice. He hardly believed results could be had in such cases, as he felt there was a definite change in the kidney that could not be overcome. He was so surprised to have these two cases recover that he came to our office and reported them in person. He did not permit us to use his name, but H. W. Knoll, a San Francisco business man, with offices in the Merchants' Exchange, was in our office when he called. The physician said in his presence, "If every doctor in the country knew what I know as to the results Fulton's Renal Compound gets in Bright's Disease there would not be a building in San Francisco big enough to manufacture it." Knoll's address is as above and he will confirm this to anyone writing him. If you have Bright's Disease you owe it to yourself and family to try Fulton's Renal Compound before giving up. It can be had at Edmondson Drug Co., 11 N. Broad St., and 106 N. Pryor St., Atlanta, Ga.

Ask for pamphlet on our investigation into the curability of Bright's Disease or write John J. Fulton Co., San Francisco.—(Advt.)

FIRST CUSTOMER AT NEW STORE WAS OLD EMPLOYER

Twenty-seven years ago a boy tramped the streets of Atlanta, out of a job and sick at heart. A local druggist employed him, he made good, and today he is manager of one of the largest chain of drug stores in the south.

The other day his firm bought a new store. The first customer to walk into the building and make a purchase from the manager was the old gentleman who had befriended him on that day in the '80s by giving him a job.

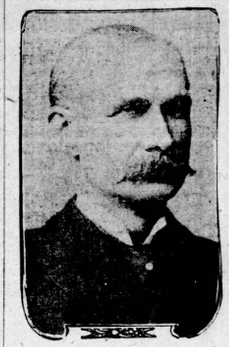
The boy who is now a manager is Charles A. Smith, of the Jacobs' stores. The purchaser is Captain S. J. Dozier, of 131 Ashby street, a pioneer citizen of Atlanta.

It was in 1885 that Charlie Smith first came to Atlanta hunting for work. Two weeks of fruitless search had begun to sicken him, when he met Captain Dozier. Walking into the store of Pinson & Dozier, then on the corner of Whitehall and Mitchell streets, he asked the captain for a job. He got it.

When Mr. Smith left the Pinson-Dozier company several years later, he became identified with Jacobs' Pharmacy. Now he is its manager. It was in this capacity that he took charge of the new store at the corner of Marietta and Forsyth streets Wednesday, just after the Jacobs company bought it.

The first customer to enter was Captain Dozier. The coincidence recalled to both men that long-ago day, and it was a hearty handshake that each gave the other as Mr. Smith handed out a wrapped bundle to his one-time employer.

First Customer



CAPTAIN J. S. DOZIER.
Once he gave Charles A. Smith a job. Now he buys from Manager Charles A. Smith, of the Jacobs drug stores.

Mitchell Weds His Step Sister, Just Out of High School

If a man marries his step-mother's daughter, what relation is his father to him—his own dad or his father-in-law? His father's wife—his step-mother or his mother-in-law? His bride—his step-sister or his own wife?

It is up to the family of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Mitchell, of 19 York avenue, to decide the relationship; for Mr. Mitchell's son, Walter Kelly Mitchell, and Mrs. Mitchell's daughter, Miss Marie Pate, were married last Saturday afternoon at the family residence.

The wedding was a surprise to Mr. Mitchell, Sr. When he came home last Saturday night from the Grady hospital, where he is employed, he brought his step-daughter-to-be-his-daughter-in-law, a beautiful bunch of roses in honor of her graduation from the Girls' High school.

It was then he learned that the roses were a wedding present, too, for Mrs. Mitchell, aged seventeen years, and her husband, aged twenty-four. The young couple have gone on their wedding trip to North Carolina, and will make their home with their parents when they return.

FESTIVAL CHORUS GIVES FINAL CONCERT SUNDAY

Before disbanding for the summer months, the Atlanta Music Festival chorus will give a big free concert at the Auditorium-Armory Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. This will be the last appearance of the chorus until late next fall, and a brilliant and elaborate program is being prepared under the direction of Dr. Percy J. Starnes. The final rehearsal will be held Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in the Auditorium, and all members of the chorus are requested to be present.

This Atlanta chorus, which is a permanent organization, was formed last year under the auspices of the Music Festival association. Over 7,000 people attended its first public appearance during Christmas week, and the splendid success achieved on that occasion was described in musical publications all over the world. The chorus is said to be the best trained and by far the largest in the southern states.

This concert Sunday afternoon will take the place of the regular weekly free organ concert. Dr. Percy J. Starnes will be the director, and Charles W. Sheldon will be the organist. The chorus numbers between 400 and 500 people.

FRIDAY, THE THIRTEENTH, IS WEDDING DAY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

QUITMAN, Ga., June 13.—Oblivious to the superstition attaching to Friday the 13th, 1913, Miss Sallie Lou Wilkinson, of Quitman, and Rev. A. H. Robinson, of Waycross, were married here today.

The bride is a pretty and accomplished young woman and has been a teacher in the Waycross schools the past two terms.

Mr. Robinson is Methodist minister of Waycross. The ceremony was performed by the bride's brother, Rev. J. C. Wilkinson, of Columbus.

Tech's First President, Dr. Hopkins, Receives Tribute From Alumni

As a mark of their esteem and appreciation of all he had done for the Georgia School of Technology, the alumni of the school, during commencement week, presented to Dr. I. S. Hopkins, first president of the institution, a handsome silver loving cup.

The tribute was delivered to him at the graduating exercises of the 1913 class. He accepted the cup in a happy speech in which he told of the early struggles of Tech and of the future that is open to it.

It was at the time that Dr. Hopkins was president of Emory college that he saw the necessity of a technological school. He accordingly rigged up a small work shop at the rear of his home and there taught students who wished to take advantage of the course. When the Georgia Tech was established later the man who had originated the idea was persuaded to leave Emory and become its first president.

COMMERCE CHAMBER HAS BEGUN CORN SHOW PLANS

Committee in Charge Starts Active Work to Make 1913 Show Best Yet

Active work in the interest of the 1913 corn show has been commenced by the committee in charge representing the chamber of commerce, and an effort will be made to make it the largest and most successful show in the history of the south.

Meetings will be held regularly during the intervening six months for the purpose of outlining definite plans for the show. The co-operation of all parts of the state is promised to help in making this a banner year.

The show will be held again in the corridors of the state capitol.

It is announced by the committee that plans are under way to establish a new supplementary series of awards for the 1913 Georgia Corn show, in which boys who are handicapped by poor land will have the same opportunity to win recognition as the more fortunate boys who have high-yielding land to begin with. This will be in addition to prizes already offered and will in no wise affect the regular high yield competitions as in former years.

In connection with the new prizes this handicap will be taken into consideration, and boys will be regded not only as before for the greatest total yields per acre, but also for the greatest proportionate increase per acre. In other words, if a boy whose land normally has been making fifteen bushels an acre, increased its yield to thirty bushels, he wins in the handicap contest over the boy whose land has been yielding normally forty bushels and who increases it to fifty bushels.

The annual corn show will take place during the first week in December. The Georgia Corn show last year was large and important, and this year it is proposed not only to retain, but to advance still further the eminence of Georgia as a southern corn-growing state.

We Should Worry! This is the Jinx Day of the Year

A man stepped off the street car at Five Points Friday morning, caught his trousers on a snag, ripped a neat triangle out of their immediate rear, plunged his hand into a bucket of axle grease on the platform, tripped and fell to the pavement, two automobiles, a delivery wagon, and a bicycle ran over him, somebody dropped a pot of glue on his head from the tenth story of an office building, and a policeman arrested him for blocking the traffic.

He was the luckiest man in town.

Being locked up early in the morning, the jinx of the day could not pursue him behind barred windows and he was left at peace. Other folk were not so fortunate. All through the day various reports of hard luck were heard, varying from the birth of triplets instead of twins to the sudden coming to life of a notorious mother-in-law.

It was a fierce day, both for the father and the triplets, and everybody else. People heaped imprecations on the head of the man that invented calendars, and vowed that the next time Friday the thirteenth, 1913, came around they would worry a bit, tie a horse to it, and ride away.

SUGGESTS THAT SEALS BE PUT ON AUTO CUT-OFFS

The use of lead seals such as those used by railroad companies to seal box cars, is suggested by Edward McDowell, of 647 Peachtree street, to prevent automobilists opening their exhaust cut-offs, in a letter to Assistant Chief of Police Jett.

Mr. McDowell declares that Columbus, Ohio, already has solved the problem of the noiseless automobile by passing an ordinance requiring the employment of such seals. He says further that the local city ordinance requiring cut-offs to be closed on the exhause pipes of automobiles is flagrantly violated here daily.

"Atlanta is certainly wide open to auto privileges, said Mr. McDowell in his letter. Motorists dominate the situation. The noise and speeding out my way day and night are simply unbearable. The whole thing is a farce."

DEDICATE SCHOOL

The opening event, and perhaps the most important of the whole week, always so significant in the communal life of Athens and the educational history of the state, was the formal dedication, Thursday night, of the new school of education, George Peabody hall, which has attracted so much attention over the south.

The board of trustees, who held their first session Thursday afternoon, hearing the reports of the heads of the various departments of the university, and the faculty of the institution, were present and the occasion was one of great import.

The formal dedication took place at the ancient chapel, and consisted of addresses by Dr. Woofter, dean of the new school, and Dr. H. H. Horne, of the New York University School of Pedagogy; a delivery of the building over to the trustees by Chancellor Barrow, as chairman of the building committee, and an acceptance of the same on behalf of the board of trustees by their chairman, ex-Governor Henry D. McDaniel.

Dr. Woofter merely gave a brief but interesting talk upon the history of the new institution and then presented the floor to Dr. Horne, the speaker of the occasion, who made one of the most thoughtful, scholarly and likewise delightfully pleasing addresses ever delivered from the historic old platform.

He spoke upon the subject of "The Function of a School of Education in a State University." After showing how Georgia stood forty-fourth among the forty-eight states in the efficiency of her public school system, he pointed out how the new school could bring her out of the rut. He made it clear how such an institution could spread in Georgia a "true science and sound philosophy of education," how its presence at the state university, the very head and heart of the public school system, was particularly advantageous. He stressed the tremendous value of the extension work possibilities.

After the formal program, the meeting adjourned to the handsome new building itself, where a thoroughly delightful and informal reception was attended by the chancellor and faculty, the trustees, visitors, students and all other officers and friends of the university.

SOCIAL EVENTS FRIDAY

After the affair of Thursday morning, the formal commencement program of the university is suspended until the historic "sophomore cup declamation" contest Saturday evening, but Friday will not be lacking with significance, since it marks the beginning of the students' and the society belles' side of the program.

Friday evening the Thalian Dramatic club presents "A House on the Sands," by Edgar D. Dunlap, a graduating student of the university; and immediately after the performance, the fashionable audience will wend its way to the big Panhellenic ball, the first and largest of the numerous social events of the week, when Athens society and society from all over the state, will quaff the first cup of the intoxicating festive spirit of the half-sad, half-joyous days of the commencement season.

SUFFERED FROM STOMACH AND GALL BLADDER EIGHT YEARS

Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy Cured Her.

Mrs. H. L. Trammell, Boston, Texas, writes: "I have suffered from stomach and gall bladder trouble for eight years and I have been under the medical attention of the best physicians and specialists in Texas and Georgia. Their latest advice was an operation as the only cure or even relief. I have only taken one second bottle of your Wonderful Stomach Remedy and I feel marvelously improved. I have every confidence in it and believe it will effect a permanent cure."

The above is only one of the thousands of letters that I receive constantly praising Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy. If you are a sufferer of Stomach, Liver, Intestinal Ailments, Appendicitis and Gall Stones, try one dose tonight. One dose will convince you of its wonderful curative powers and will also quickly relieve you of your suffering. Send for FREE valuable booklet on Stomach Ailments to Geo. H. Mayr, Mfg. NOW WE'LL HEAR THE TRUTH FROM WAR-TORN W. VIRGINIA

Above is the United States senate committee which is sitting at Charleston, W. Va., to investigate the bloody civil war which has raged in that state for over a year—a civil war in which women and children have suffered and during which striking miners have been sent to the penitentiary for long terms without trial. From left to right, they are: Senators Shields, of Tennessee; Swanson, of Virginia Martine, of New Jersey; Borah, of Idaho, and Kenyon, of Colorado.

Hit By Water Tank, And Hurled to Death From Top of Freight

(By Associated Press.)

TAMPA, Fla., June 12.—O. A. Rader, flagman on the Atlantic Coast Line, was knocked from the top of a freight car at Kissimmee Thursday by a water tank spout and sustained injuries from which he died later at a hospital at Lakeland.

The body will be shipped to his former home at Lebanon, Tenn.

JAMESON TO CONSIDER CALL TO ARKANSAS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MACON, Ga., June 13.—Dr. S. Y. Jameson, who recently resigned the presidency of Mercer University, left today for Arkadelphia, Ark., for the purpose of holding a conference with trustees of Ouchachita college with a view of accepting the head of that institution.

He recently declined to accept the head of the Arkansas college but since his resignation at Mercer he has been urged several times by wire to reconsider the call to the western college.

His conference with the trustees of the college will determine whether or not he will accept "the college presidency or return to Macon to accept a business offer that has been offered him.

WORK RESUMED ON CORDELE POSTOFFICE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

CORDELE, Ga., June 13.—Work was resumed Wednesday morning for the completion of Cordele's new postoffice building. The bondsmen of Ambrose B. Stannard, contractor for the building, who was forced to turn it over to them for failure of complying with the contract, have sent A. C. Wycoff to superintend the work.

It is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy by July 14, and that an opening day, when it will be thrown open for public inspection, will be held soon afterward.

...OR HOLDS UP POSTMASTER'S BOND

ROME, Ga., June 13.—Because of a clerical error in the bond sent for J. P. Bowie, appointee for postmaster at Rome, he has not yet assumed office, although it had been expected that he would take over the affairs of the local postoffice on June 19.

Fiery Boat Anchors

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 13.—The Munson liner steamer Olinda docked here at 6 o'clock Thursday evening having extinguished the fire in her hold. The officers say that a thorough survey will be made of her condition to determine the amount of damage done by the fire. As soon as possible the vessel will proceed to her Cuban destination.

Accepts Church Call

DALTON, Ga., June 13.—Rev. J. D. Miller, a local Presbyterian preacher, has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Unionville Presbyterian church, of Illinois, and has accepted. He leaves today to take up his work there.

DELOS HILL SPEAKS TO STATE DENTISTS

Interesting Recommendations Are Made by President

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 13.—The second day's session of the forty-sixth annual convention of the Georgia Dental society was taken up largely with the reading and discussion of papers, all of which were of unusual interest to the delegates in attendance.

An interesting feature of the session yesterday afternoon was the annual address of Dr. DeLos Hill, of Atlanta, president of the society. Dr. Hill made the following recommendations:

"That a permanent membership committee be appointed, of which the chairman of the executive committee would be a member, to revise our membership list and to elicit the interest of ethical non-members with the hopes of obtaining them as members of this organization.

"That a committee be appointed to investigate the moving picture film as shown by correspondence of Dr. Hunt and report their recommendation to this society for action.

"That a committee be appointed to revise the constitution and by-laws, with authority to print at least 1,000 of the same.

"That a committee be appointed to devise ways and means of bringing to our next meeting some essayist or clinician of note.

"That a committee be appointed to investigate the basis on which this society may become a component society of the N. D. A., and report their recommendations."

The session will be continued through Saturday, the election of officers and selection of the next meeting place to be the most important business of the closing session.

CURE FOUND FOR GUM DISEASE OF CITRUS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 13.—The discovery of a cure for gum disease, a fungoid growth which does hundreds of thousands of dollars damage annually to California citrus crops was announced today by State Horticulturist Cook. Mr. Cook says it has been demonstrated beyond a doubt that a paste made of a mixture of lime, copper sulphate and water exterminates the pest if applied to the trees and the ground surrounding them.

Mr. Cook asserts also that the gray rot and brown rot fungus, which makes its appearance in the packing houses, is a variety of the gum disease and can be exterminated by the use of the paste.

President Prepares To Move Family to Summer White House

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 13.—President Wilson personally will conduct Mrs. Wilson and their daughters to the summer white house at Cornish, N. H., it was learned today, provided congress is not in session. The trip will be made early next month and it is expected that congress when it adjourns over the fourth of July will take a recess probably from Wednesday to the following Monday the National holiday falling on Friday this year.

This would give the president ample time to see that his family settled in their summer home and return for the resumption of the session.

To friends the president has made it known that he has decided to remain in the capitol during practically the entire summer term.

CORDELE WANTS TO NAME POLICE CHIEF

CORDELE, Ga., June 13.—A petition is being circulated among the voters of Cordele, the purpose of which is to induce Representative O. T. Gower to introduce a bill in the legislature to so amend the city's charter that the chief of police will be elective by the people.

It is understood that the originator of the petition, Hill Britt, makes the allegation that ring politics are too commonly practiced in the election of the chief of police, as well as other city officials, by the mayor and city council.

Z. T. PENNY DIES SUDDENLY AT VIENNA

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

VIENNA, Ga., June 13.—Z. T. Penny, formerly tax receiver of this county and for six terms clerk of the superior court, was found dead at the court house Thursday afternoon. He had been in bad health for some time and was subject to epileptic seizures.

His sudden death is supposed to have been superinduced by one of these attacks. He leaves a wife and six children, one of whom is the wife of Judge W. H. Lassiter, of this city.

Reparations Barred

WASHINGTON, June 13.—General readjustment with reductions of about 12 per cent on the freight rates on coke from the Connellsville region in Pennsylvania to furnaces and steel mills, both east and west, was ordered today by the interstate commerce commission. Reparation aggregating millions of dollars was not allowed.

BRAZILIAN DIPLOMATS VISIT NAVAL ACADEMY

Dr. Lauro Muller, Brazilian Minister of Foreign Affairs, Guest of Secy. Garrison

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Dr. Lauro Muller, Brazilian minister of foreign affairs, and his party were entertained today by being taken to Annapolis to inspect the naval academy, where a special drill in their honor, a luncheon, hydro-aeroplane flights and inspection of the buildings was arranged for them.

It was said by one of the members of the party that Brazil was thinking of adding some hydro-aeroplanes to her military department. Lieutenant Da Fonseca, son of President Fonseca of Brazil, and Dr. Muller's son, another member of the party, expressed their desire to make flights if opportunity is offered them.

Tonight Secretary Garrison will give a dinner in honor of the distinguished visitors.

Jumps Into Well And Ends His Life

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

DANIELSVILLE, Ga., June 13.—Buddie Reeves Williams, a prominent farmer living near Danielsville, committed suicide Friday morning by jumpink in a well.

Reasons assigned for the act are financial troubles and bad health.

TELLS FRIENDS GOOD-BYE AND THEN ENDS LIFE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

DALTON, Ga., June 13.—That the suicide of Charley Gunz, in Calhoun, was premeditated is evidenced by a letter received here by Clayton Ault, written by Gunz and forwarded here after his death. In his letter he states that Ault would doubtless be surprised when he "learned of this."

He asks Ault to bid good-by to his friends and live right, so as to not follow him. In the letter he gives no reason for his act. The body arrived here Thursday afternoon, and was interred in West Hill cemetery, a large crowd of friends attending.

DEFIANT SUFFRAGIST TO PAY TAXES NOW

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, June 13.—"Mrs." Belle Squire, the defiant suffragette who, as head of the No Vote No Tax league, has refused to pay taxes for five years, will square her account with the county as soon as Governor Dunne signs the woman suffrage bill.

"When the bill is signed and I am no longer a citizen in name only, I will be bound to be a prompt taxpayer," she asserted last night.

Robinson Named

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

DALTON, Ga., June 13.—W. B. Robinson, clerk of the Murray county superior court, has been commissioned division deputy grand master of the eighteenth division of Odd Fellows, his appointment following the resignation of Buell Stark, of this city, following Mr. Stark's election as grand herald of the state grand lodge.

Wanted: One Poet Laureate At $1 Per Day---J. Bull

LONDON, June 13.—The poet laureateship, which is vacant since the death of Alfred Austin, carries a salary of $350 a year, with an allowance of $155 in lieu of "a butt of sack."

Premier Asquith enlightened the members of the house of commons last night with this information, when Arthur Lynch, the Irish member for West Clare, made inquiry as to the salary, perquisites and privileges which were attached to the office. The premier admitted that he did not know the exact duties of the post.

Swift McNeill, another Irish member, who is known as the wit of the house, suggested seriously the revival of the post of king's jester. Another member promptl ysuggested Mr. McNeill for the post.

Captain Lynch wound up the discussion by asking whether a butt of sack was not an intolerable deal of sack for a ha' porth of poetry.

ELECTRIC FRANCHISE TRANSFERRED IN CORDELE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

CORDELE, Ga., June 13.—At a meeting of parties concerned, the holdings of the Citizens' Electric Light and Power company were formally transferred to J. G. White & Co. Tuesday.

The new concern has assumed the name of the Cordele Electric company, and at this meeting W. A. Belchel was made president and general manager of the company and B. S. Dunlap was elected vice president.

The new owners propose to give a continuous current for street and all other lighting, interrupted only when necessary improvements and changes are to be made at the plant. Considerable enlargement and improvement of the power house will be made to meet all demands, and the new company proposes to reduce the price of lights, as an inducement to the location of new enterprises.

MRS. CARTER HARRISON ELATED OVER VICTORY

Wife of Chicago's Mayor Congratulates Women on Obtaining Suffrage in Ill.

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Ill., June 13.—Mrs. Carter H. Harrison, wife of Chicago's mayor, congratulated the women of Illinois on their success in securing the ballot.

"It is fine that women have been given the vote in Illinois," said the wife of the city's executive last night. "If women want to vote they should be able to. I am for anything that means progression, and I want to get ahead. Now that a few women have worked as hard to secure the ballot, we must stand by them and appear at the polls. I am sure that I shall vote when the time comes.

"Women are going to have their hands full, but they have been educated up to intelligent citizenship. Of course, I am very glad to think that women have been given a chance to show what they can do and now we can watch the results."

ROSSER DECLARES DETECTIVES DARE NOT LET CONLEY TALK

all. They would be less than human if they did not bend all their power and ingenuity in holding him to his present statement, adding to and taking therefrom only such things as will aid its credibility."

The point is made that Detective Chief Lanford is not the proper custodian for Conley, but that he should be in the care and keeping of the sheriff who, "is a non-partisan official."

Asserting that the facts in the case, apart from Conley's own confession, point most strongly to him as the murderer of Mary Phagan, the answer goes on to recite a history of the negro's conduct on the day of the murder and since.

"There are some facts well known to the public and to the detectives showing Conley's guilt," it is declared. "There are other powerful facts which could readily be brought before the grand jury."

Two of the concluding paragraphs in the answer follow:

"The detectives, obsessed as they are, with the assumption that Conley is a fool and not a murderer, are unfit to keep him in their custody and unlimited power. Under their protecting care Conley, instead of being left to tell the truth will at length deceive himself into the belief that instead of being a murderer he is an unfortunate victim.

"Conley and his counsel are wise. There is for them no other hope than for the detectives to keep Conley and save him from a confession that he committed the crime, giving him immunity, provided he continues to put the guilt on Frank."

TEXT OF ANSWER.

Following is the answer in full:

"In re

"Application of Hugh M. Dorsey, solicitor general to release James Conley from legal custody.

"In answer to the petition and order in the above stated cause, served upon us as attorneys for James Conley, we herewith answer and show cause as follows:

"1. If the intention of the solicitor general is to discharge this negro from custody because (a) he is in fact not a material witness against Frank or (b) although he is a material witness, his integrity and character are such that he ought to have his liberty and be trusted to obey the subpena of this court, when considered as a witness only, he ought to be discharged and indeed he should not have been imprisoned at all. But in such case to enact the farce in the court's presence of releasing the negro and immediately return him to his cell nurses at the police station would resemble child's play.

"2. But if the solicitor believes that one of a number of contradictory statements made by this negro may, if properly preserved, be made valuable in the prosecution of Frank and that the negro may destroy its value if free to talk, and in order to stop his mouth it is necessary that the detectives should keep him in charge, then we think we have the right to protest against any order of a court of justice that winks at such a purpose.

"3. We are constrained to the conclusion that it is not the purpose of any reason to release this negro, but, by obtaining the order here sought, continue the present, illegal confinement.

FRANK DEEPLY INTERESTED.

"4. But Frank is himself deeply interested in this proceeding. That the consent of the solicitor and the will of the negro is all that is required to release the will of the negro is erroneous. The state has the right in the interest of justice to put a witness in custody, but where and in whose custody is of the highest importance. The law has given such custody to the sheriff and wisely so. The sheriff is not a prosecutor; the jail itself is not usually a place of punishment, but a temporary place of detention. The sheriff is supposed to stand impartially between the state and his prisoners, and must be trusted neither to conjole, threaten, nor suppress testimony by third degree methods. The law never contemplates a witness who, for lack of character, needs confinement under the control of a partisan prosecutor.

"5. That the detectives should wish to keep Conley in custody and entertain him at the city's expense, is not at all surprising. They have already extracted from him extravagant, unthinkable confessions, three or four in number. To these statements they have given the widest publicity, and to the credibility of the last one they have staked their reputations and hope of place.

"6. Upon the constancy and stability of this witness, they have staked their all. They would be less than human if they did not bend all their power and ingenuity in holding him to his present statement, adding to and taking therefrom only such things as will aid its credibility.

LANFORD NOT A PROPER CUSTODIAN.

"Can any fair-minded man believe that Lanford is a fair man to be the custodian of this ignorant negro? What chance would he have to retract any lies he may have told, or if in a repentant mood he should wish to tell the truth? This negro in the city prison, in the power of Lanford, apart from all questions of truth, would be just as dangerous as Lanford would wish him to be. No one knows that better than Lanford and no one would feel it as acutely as will this negro.

"How well Lanford knows it can be seen from his interview in the Atlanta Georgian of June 12. In that interview he demonstrated that he thinks he has full, unrestricted ownership of this negro. He graciously expresses his willingness for this negro to go before the grand jury upon such terms as he suggests. Neither the negro, nor the negro's lawyer, nor the grand jury, is considered. Nor was this court to be consulted—his will and not the order of this court was to determine when and under what circumstances the negro should leave the police station.

"If Lanford vaunts in the face of jury and court his power over this negro, what must be his bearing when he deals privately with the negro himself? What chance has he for abstract a lie or add a truth to the foolish statement which Lanford approves and wishes to maintain? If this man will, when he is holding this negro under your honor's order, declare such ownership over this negro's person and movements, to what length would he go if the court releases its power over him and turns him over to Lanford's unrestricted power?

"6. It is just to Frank, as well as in the interest of public justice, that this negro should be detained by unbiased, fair men, whose reputations and positions are not at stake. The law recognizes this right and has put that duty upon the sheriff. Will there be less fairness and less decency in the county jail than in the police station? When did Lanford become a wiser, fairer, better man than the sheriff of this county?

"7. Apart from this negro's position as a witness, his detention in the custody of the detectives would be a public calamity. Many unbiased people believe this negro is the murderer of little Mary Phagan. The facts of the case, apart from his own confession, point most strongly to him as the guilty man.

FACTS AGAINST CONLEY.

"(a). On the day of the murder he was drunk and concealed himself in a position where he could readily commit the murder.

"(b). On Monday morning he was unduly excited, so much so as to arouse the suspicions of the employes. On Saturday night after the murder he was caught hiding in his own house.

"(c). When the police were in the building he was caught hiding in an obscure part of the factory where he had no business.

"(d). When questioned about this conduct he said he would give a large sum to be a white man. When asked why he said he could then get safely past the police.

"(e). He for a long time persistently denied that he could write and did not admit that he could until longer denial was useless.

"(f). He was caught washing a shirt, a thing he had never done before, and when caught gave a foolish excuse.

"(g). He denied all participation in or knowledge of the crime until he was driven by the charge that he wrote the notes found near the body.

"(h). On May 18 he made a signed statement outlining his actions on April 26, making no mention of the murder.

"(i). On May 24 he made an affidavit. He said that on April 25, before the murder on April 26, he wrote the notes at the request of Frank for which Frank gave him cigarettes and $2.50, and added statements about Frank's people in Brooklyn and an inquiry by Frank as to why he should hang.

"(j). On May 28 Conley made a long affidavit, full of contradictions and absurdities, beginning it as follows:

"'I make this statement, my second statement in regard to the murder of Mary Phagan at the National Pencil factory. In my first statement, I made the statement that I went in the pencil factory on Friday, April 25, and went in Frank's office at five minutes to one, which is a mistake. I make this statement in regard to Friday in order that I might not be accused of knowing anything of this murder, for I thought if I put myself there on Saturday they might accuse me of having a hand in it, and I now make MY SECOND AND LAST STATEMENT regarding the matter freely and voluntarily, after thinking over the situation, and I have made up my mind to tell the whole truth and I make it freely and voluntarily without the promise of any reward or from force or fear of punishment in any way.

"(k) After this beginning he sets out with variations the writing of the notes on Saturday instead of on Friday, and in a long rambling statement his movements at home and on Peter street on Saturday and on Monday at the factory, most of which is wholly disconnected with the murder.

A THIRD STATEMENT.

"(l) On May 29 1913, although he had already sworn that he had made 'his true, full and last statement,' he made another statement in which he purported to aid Mr. Frank in concealing the body of Mary Phagan. This statement is full of contradictions and wholly irreconcilable with itself and with the known facts surrounding the murder.

"(m) He closes this remarkable affidavit in the following words: 'The reason I have not told this before is that I thought Mr. Frank would get out and help me out, but it seems that he is not going to get out and I decided to tell the whole truth about the matter.'

"(n) These are some facts well known to the public to the detectives, showing Conley's guilt. There are other powerful facts, which could readily be brought before the grand jury.

"8 These incoherent, gibbering statements will, it is believed impress the grand jury of the negro Conley's case is submitted to it.

"(9) The grand jury can be trusted to scan these queer statements in the light of all the surrounding facts and circumstances and taken in connection with all other facts implicating Conley, they proclaim his guilt beyond all reasonable doubt.

"(10) The detectives, obsessed as they are with the assumption that Conley is a tool and not a murderer are unfit to keep him in their sole and unlimited power. Under their protecting care, Conley, instead of being left to tell the truth will lat length deceive himself into the belief that instead of being a murderer he is an unfortunate victim.

"(11) That Conley and his counsel wish it is the best reason why it should be done. As long as he sticks to a story pleasing to the detectives, or builds upon that story as additions may be needed, he is assured that the detectives will save him as far as possible from the clutches of the grand jury and will, so far as they can fly upon him no greater crime than a misdemeanor.

"(12) Conley and his counsel are wise. There is for them no other hope than for the detectives to keep Conley and save him from a confession that he committed the crime, giving him immunity, provided he continues to put the guilt on Frank.

"Respectfully submitted,

"ROSSER & BRANDON."

Women Don't Want The Right to Vote Says "Uncle Joe"

TUSCOLA, Ill., June 13.—"Women Jm m.2ingmuf'srol(Kcmf cmf emf emf don't want the right to vote," a privilege granted them in Illinois by the legislature last Tuesday, Joseph G. Cannon, former speaker of the national house told a Douglas county audience yesterday.

"I am not afraid of woman suffrage," asserted Uncle Joe." "I am not violently opposed, if the women really want it, but if the proposition were put to the women of the state it would be lost by 50,000 votes. Now that we are going to have it in Illinois, it will be a good time for an awfully handsome man to run for office."

The former speaker said he was living on "borrowed time" and that the speech might be his last, but the platform from which he spoke shook with the vehemence of his movements when he paid his respects to "some present political tendencies."

It was in Tuscola fifty-nine years ago that Mr. Cannon began the practice of law.

All Teachers Paid for '12

The last remnant of the unpaid salaries of the state's teachers for 1912 was wiped out Thursday when the state treasurer drew a warrant for $17,799.13, to be divided among those counties which for one reason and another have failed to obtain their teachers' salary balances.

CITY BUDGET FOR JUNE WILL GET MAYOR'S O. K.

But He Will Impose Condition That It Must Not Conflict With Supreme Court

Mayor Wodward announced Friday that he would approve the June budget, which carries $260,000 to buy the new crematory, but would do so on the express condition that nothing in the budget conflicts with the supreme court's decision in the crematory case.

In order to protect himself against such a conflict, either present or future, the mayor will write this condition across the face of the budget, where the official "stamp" of his approval goes.

"I am going to keep inside the supreme court's decision," the mayor said. "I've got a copy of it in my desk and I'm reading it as closely as I know how. I am not going to be in contempt."

Although he has made up his mind on the budget, the mayor is still somewhat doubtful of the crematory contract ,as the contract now stands.

On reading it he found a number of provisions which were objectionable to him from a standpoint of the city's interest, and he informed the city attorney that the contract much be redrawn.

"I am not against the purchase of the crematory, now that the company agrees to take $260,000 for it," the mayor said. "But I am determind of two things. First, as I say, I am determined to track the supreme court decision. And, second, I am determined that the city's interests shall be well cared for in the wording of the contract."

The budget will go to council Monday with the mayor's approval.

Aviators Debate How to Saves Selves As Sparks Fly and Machine Tilts

(By Associated Press.)

ST. LOUIS, June 13.—Facing death, Aviator Anthony Jannus and Arthur Leminger coolly debated in midair today which of two plans for escape chance would favor. They got into trouble when one of the tail rods on the machine worked loose while making a flight. Leminger caught the rod, intending to hold it until they could land. In his struggle with the rod his coat tail fell over the exhaust pipe and caught fire.

Meanwhile, Jannus had been fighting to keep the machine in the air. While sparks flew from Leminger's clothes they debated whether it would be better to drop the tail rod or desert the steering levers for a moment. They decided the latter course was more prudent.

Jannus dropped the wheel, and while Leminger held stability to the rod his burning coat was torn from his back. They landed safely at Alton, Ill. Leminger got a new coat and they resumed their flight to Chicago.

Timely Work on Peachtree Road.

In providing for the immediate repair and the ultimate repavement of Peachtree road, the County Commissioners have rendered an especially valuable and needed service. That thoroughfare is one of the county's great arteries of traffic. Even with the most careful and constant attention, the task of keeping it in good condition would be a serious one, so heavy and continuous is the flow of travel it must sustain. Naturally, then, when left unworked for long months together it became almost impassable.

It is gratifying to know that the Commissioners intend not only to make immediate repairs but also in the early spring of 1914 to reconstruct this important highway between those points where the burden of traffic is heaviest and where it has become dilapidated. When that is done, adequate means should be provided for the constant upkeep of this and of all other main roads in the county. Repairs promptly made will save the county hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The maintenance of good roads is as important a matter as their construction. In France, whose magnificent system of highways is famous the world over, a government inspector is detailed for every five or six miles of public roads; and whenever the slightest break is noted it is repaired at once. Because of this everlasting watchfulness, the French system of roads is a model not only of smoothness and durability but also of economy.

Georgia counties, practically all of which are now keenly interested in the cause of good roads, would find it greatly to their advantage if they would provide some plan of regular inspection for their highways to the end that repairs might be made when it would require little money or labor to do so.

Five Hundred Millions Ready For An Emergency.

The announcement by Secretary McAdoo that the treasury department would issue five hundred million dollars of emergency currency, should it be needed in moving crops, has had a wholesome effect on the country's financial temper. The issuance of his statement had nothing to do, as the Secretary said later, with the situation in Wall Street. Its influence, however, has been none the less seasonable and reassuring for present as well as prospective conditions. The fact that the Government stands ready to tide over any money stringency this autumn serves as an immediate stimulus and a sustaining power to the market.

The announcement is chiefly significant as indicating that the present administration will use all the resources at its command to safeguard the country against anything like an artificial or a natural panic. Should circumstances demand it, the treasury department, availing itself of its authority under the Aldrich-Vreeland act, would release half a billion dollars of currency and thereby counteract tendencies that might have set in. Such a course would be especially helpful in the event of a stringency of money in the moving of crops and it is that particular situation which the Government now has in mind. But the administration's policy, as announced by Secretary McAdoo, will in effect go further still and strengthen the confidence of business generally; for, it shows a determination to protect the country's economic interests in any emergency that may arise.

Nothing could be more characteristic of the constructive purpose of the Wilson administration or of its practical readiness to conserve all legitimate interests.

The South and the Nation's Future Meat Supply.

The recent report of the Department of Agriculture, showing that within the past six years the country's production of beef cattle has decreased thirty per cent, leads a western packer to remark that this condition must be met by the small farmer, "who can raise a few head of cattle, a dozen or so, and get them to market." The days of the great cattle ranges of the West are numbered, he thinks; land that was once given over to this industry is being used for wheat and other crops, so that our future supply of beef, in so far as it is produced at home, must come from a variety of limited sources rather than, as heretofore, from a few large centers.

Whatever errors there may be in such a theory, it suggests at least one important truth; and that is the rich opportunities which present day conditions afford the average farmer in the South for profitable cattle raising. Though he may not hope to enter the market on a large scale, he can at least raise enough cattle and live stocks to supply his own needs and, with proper management, a surplus for the demands of his immediate neighborhood or district. The mild climate, together with the cheapness of forage, reduce the expenses of such enterprises to a minimum; and a few years of experiment might convince the farmer that cattle raising was safer and more profitable than the other lines he had followed; certainly more so than the practice of stocking all his money and labor on a single crop.

By every natural circumstance, the South is the great beef producing section of the future. As the Department of Agriculture has shown, its soil will grow those grasses which are most nutritious as cattle food. Its winters are short and temperate, so that pasturage is possible the year around. There are thousands of acres now idle which could thus be turned to wonderfully productive account. The fact that the home supply of beef is decreasing so rapidly and that the West is no longer to be depended upon as a permanent source of supply makes the South the veritable center of this industry for the decades to come.

The Results of a Health Campaign

In the State of Pennsylvania six years ago more than fifty-four persons out of every one hundred thousand of the population died from typhoid fever. Last year the typhoid death rate was only sixteen and five-tenths per hundred thousand. This remarkable progress in the conquest of a disease that entailed so tremendous an economic and human loss is said to be due chiefly to the thorough investigation of the sources of water supply and the supervision of dairies.

The State began its campaign against typhoid and other diseases by enacting well considered laws and providing adequate means for their enforcement. Inspectors were detailed in every county to look carefully into the conditions of rural districts as well as cities; and at the same time there was launched a State-wide campaign of education through which the people were shown the reasons for the new measures that were being taken and were aroused to the importance of lending them earnest co-operation.

The result is that Pennsylvania's death rate from typhoid has been reduced thirty-eight per hundred thousand; the State is a vastly more desirable place of residence; its industries are more prosperous and secure; its reputation is brighter; its people are richer and happier.

A similarly conducted campaign in Georgia would produce equally gratifying results. The fact that we have no system of vital statistics in this State makes it impossible to reckon our present death rate from typhoid or from any other disease. Georgia is naturally healthful but no one can deny that its progress is being retarded by the lack of adequate health laws, particularly in rural districts. This is one of the most important matters that will come before the Legislature; it should be given the consideration it deserves.

Establish the Truth

The Fulton county Grand Jury is to be commended for its purpose to go exhaustively into all the windings of the recent dictograph episode.

Nothing short of a complete investigation will establish the truth or falsity of the various charges and countercharges that have been made. If these accusations concerned individuals alone they might be dismissed as a passing sensation but they touch the integrity and usefulness of public institutions. They involve the welfare of the community.

Clearly, therefore, they should be probed unflinchingly until the truth has been brought fully to light. If crime has been perpetrated either by officials or private citizens, it should be laid bare and brought to a just accounting. If not, then innocence wrongly accused should be vindicated.

THE PHILIPPINES

I.—How the Filipinos Are Governed.
BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Now that it is evident that the Democratic administration intends to tackle the problem of our national relations with the Philippine islands, and may possibly make radical change, it cannot but prove profitable for intelligent and disinterested readers to know exactly how the Philippines are governed, and how much of the administration is in the hands of the Filipinos themselves.

Civil government in the Philippines began July 4, 1901, with the inauguration of William H. Taft as governor general. Prior to this two civil commissions were sent out by President McKinley. This first, in 1899-1900, was headed by Jacob Gould Schurmann, president of Cornell university, now minister to Greece. One of his associates was Colonel Charles Denby, who had just finished thirteen years' service as American minister to China. The Schurmann commission reported against holding the islands. Dr. Schurmann saying: "The worst government by the Filipinos would be better than the best government by the Americans."

The second commission under the leadership of William H. Taft reached the islands in September, 1900. The revolt against the United States had not been stamped out and General MacArthur was military governor. Martial law still prevailed in the city of Manila and chaos held sway throughout the provinces. The early sessions of the second commission were held in the midst of these turbulent conditions. Nevertheless, after a few months, the civil commissioners advised President McKinley that the situation warranted the establishment of a civil government. This was followed by the passage of the army, which regarded its work of pacification as unfinished. Indeed, trouble was not all over. As late as 1905 the writ of habeas corpus had to be withdrawn in the provinces of Batangas and Cavite, which are right at Manila's doors, and troops were sent in to subdue the bandit bands led by Felizardo and Sakay. Similar fiends, who robbed and tortured their own people, defied the American and Filipino troops in the provinces of Samar and Leyte several years later than that. In fact, the last robber band in Samar, led by Otoy, a guerilla chief and fake pope, was not broken up for good until 1911. But it is said on the other hand that American misgovernment was largely responsible for the outbreak of 1905.

When civil government was installed on July 4, 1901, Governor Taft and his colleagues of the Philippine commission constituted the sole governing body of the archipelago. The vice governor was Luke E. Wright, a Tennessee Democrat and a Confederate veteran of the Civil war. The others were Henry Clay Ide, secretary of finance and justice, now minister to Spain; Dean C. Worcester, a professor from the University of Michigan, secretary of the interior; Bernard Moses, who left the faculty of the University of California, to which he later returned, secretary of public instruction. The portfolio of commerce and police was held by Vice Governor Wright. In addition, there were three commissionerships without portfolios which were held by Filipinos—Dr. T. H. Pardo de Tavera, Benito Legarda and Jose Luburriaga. The only ones still on the commission are Worcester and Luzurriaga. Salaries of this body were fixed as follows: governor general $20,000; commissioners with portfolios, $15,000; commissioners without portfolios, $5,500. The last were later raised to $7,500. The governor general also is given the use of Malacanang palace, a beautiful old mansion on the banks of the Pasig river, where the Spanish governors general once ruled. These salaries are considered excessive in this country, but as a matter of fact, they are generally held to be only adequate. Similar positions in the British colonial service pay twice as much, besides providing a life work and adequate retirement privileges.

By act of congress the Philippine commission was the all-governing body. The members passed the laws as commissioners and then executed them as secretaries of the several departments. The president of the United States, with the consent of the senate, appoints the governor general and the members of the Philippine commission, and the justices of the supreme court. The insular auditor and insular treasurer are appointed by the secretary of war, who rules the islands from Washington through the medium of the bureau of insular affairs. Aside from these few officials the governor general and the commission appoint all other insular officials, including judges, directors of bureaus, railroad and irrigation experts, etc.

Each commissioner who also holds a portfolio has so many bureaus in his department. They report to him and he in turn lays all important matters before the commission, or governor general's cabinet, as it is sometimes called. The Filipino commissioners without portfolios have a full vote but no executive authority. They keep busy by attending the sessions and performing heavy committee duties. Thus, it may be seen that the commission, having both legislative and executive power, was in absolute control of the insular government until 1907, when the first Philippine assembly was organized. The commission is now the upper house of the Philippine legislature. It still retains its executive powers over the Filipinos proper, and continues to rule the Moros of Mindanao, the Igorots and other wild tribes of northern Luzon, all non-Christians, in fact, without interference from the assembly.

The supreme court of the Philippines was organized with a full bench of the chief justice, Cayatano Arallano, who still presides over the court. There are seven justices, of which four are Americans. The positions are supposed to be for life and pay $10,000 per annum. No justice has been removed for any cause whatever, political or otherwise, and Democrats frequently have served. Notable among these are James F. Smith, of California, who later became governor general, and now is an associate justice of the court of customs appeals in Washington, and Adams C. Carson, of Virginia, still a member of the court, and who served as a captain of volunteers during the Philippine insurrection and later as a judge of the court of first instance.

Another Democrat now on the supreme court is Justice Grant T. Trent, of Tennessee, who was elevated by President Taft after twelve years of service in the islands as a captain of volunteers, lieutenant in the regular army, supervisor of the Filipino fiscals (prosecuting attorneys in the provinces) and judge of the court of first instance. Of the other two American justices, Sherman Moreland, of New York, and E. Finley Johnson, of Michigan, are Republicans. The latter is famous in the far east as a constitutional lawyer. The Filipino justices have been on the court since its organization. Besides the chief justice, a most eminent jurist given the degree of LL. D. by Yale when he visited the United States in 1904, they are Victoriano Mapa and Antonio C. Torres.

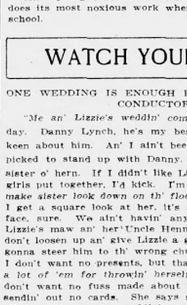
Secret Societies In Schools

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.
(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

The faculty committee of student organizations at Barnard college has prohibited for three years to come the election of new members to the young women's secret societies. This is a healthful sign. After the youth has leaped across the threshold of life, to use the language of the commencement address, and has begun to hack his name in the walls of the hall of fame, in other words, when he has settled down in his father's music store, or she, if so be it is a she, has married and begun her career as a social regulator, it is time enough for clubs.



The average club is bad enough, based as it is upon the unwholesome theory of exclusiveness. It is usually the product of idleness, intended to promote the gospel of the superiority of the idle class. It reaches its highest point in London, where exist the largest and most important collection of endowed loafers. The club idea has spread throughout the upper crust of civilization, and there are few Americans who do not cherish a secret desire to "belong" to a club and be called gentlemen, using the word in the sense of having no work to do and following a strict course in alcohol and useless accomplishments, towit: bridge, billiards, golf, polo and various forms of gambling.

But when the club idea enters the school house and gets its clutches upon the young it is a pest. A bold voice at Cornell the other day raised in protest against the snob-breeding cliques that have reigned there, as they have in most other universities.

I talked recently with a Wesleyan senior from Middletown, who warmly defended the secret societies. In the flush of youth he took all the specious arguments for clubdom ostensibly, and was evidently firmly convinced that the best way to advance ideals and improve the quality of student life is by means of special exclusive sets.

And it is this pestiferous persuasion that he will take with him into the world. It seems presumptuous to attack a notion that is so rooted in the thoughts and habits of the people; one feels like Don Quixote tilting at windmills. We live in an age when societies, associations, cliques and clubs are thick as the sands of the sea. Anybody that feels an impulse to do anything goes forthwith and joins a society for the promotion or the prevention of something or other, and if he cannot find one to join he organizes one.

Perhaps this is the proper method. At least it is the prevailing method. But at least the young people might be spared, and during their adolescence taught that the greatest thing in the world to belong to is humanity; that brotherhood is not wholly ethical unless it includes all human beings, and that the spirit of this country is not privilege and exclusion, but democracy.

The New York Times says with truth that "the assumption of secrecy in college affiliations erects artificial barriers, creates narrow cliques, and forbids that free intermingling of kindred spirits along lines of natural selection that can be made the most precious of college attributes."

Groups we must have and associations of those drawn together by common tastes and aims; but snob-groups based upon purely artificial principles of selection and catering with them "that superior feeling" are poor substitutes for rational fellowship.

And it might be added that the "society" bacillus does its most noxious work when it invades the high school.

WATCH YOUR STEP!

ONE WEDDING IS ENOUGH FOR THE ANXIOUS CONDUCTOR.

"Me an' Lizzie's weddin' comes off next Wednesday. Danny Lynch, he's my best man. Lizzie ain't keen about him. An' I ain't been 'bout th' girl she's picked to stand up with Danny. It's that rain crow sister o' hern. If I didn't like Lizzie more'n all other girls put together, I'd kick. I'm gonna tell Danny to make sister look down on th' floor all th' time, for if I get a square look at her, it's all off. I'll slap her face, sure. We ain't havin' anybody else there but Lizzie's maw an' her Uncle Henny. An' if ol' Henny don't loosen an' spend a good present, Danny's gonna steer him to th' wrong church so he'll miss it. I don't want no presents, but that girl ought to have a lot of 'em for throwin' herself away on me. She don't want no fuss made about th' weddin' an' ain't sendin' out no cards. She says she beggared herself all her life sendin' weddin' presents to people she didn't care enough about to go to their funeral, an' she don't want them kind o' people sendin' her junk. An' we ain't gonna spend all th' cash I saved up running to Niagary Falls to hold hands.

"Some fellows talk about a honeymoon like it was th' last good time they'd ever give their wife. Me an' Lizzie is hookin' up for keeps. She says, 'Jerry, they's only one kind of a widow, an' that's a sod widow.' An' I been goin' with her so long, I guess she means it. If any gay female comes prancin' up longside me when I'm Lizzie's man, I'll cut her dead. If she keeps botherin' me, I'll say, 'Look here, woman, you're askin' for it, an' you gonna get it. I'm gonna sick Lizzie on to you. She'll make you hard to catch. If you're a good sprinter, you'll go so far in ten minutes, it'll take you eight hours to come back.' Gee, I wish it was next Wednesday tomorrow.

"Come on; come on! Don't stand there waitin'!

"All on, now, allaboard!

"Watch your step!"

Quips and Quiddities

There is at Princeton an instructor in mathematics who was country bred, a fact that is frequently betrayed by some homely saying of his.

One day an undergraduate had performed some peculiarly useless process in arriving at the solution of a problem, when the instructor said:

"This reminds me of a colt once owned by an old friend of mine down east. This colt was put out to pasture, after having been fed from its birth in a box stall and watered at a trough in the yard. The pasture lay across a small river, and in the middle of the day the colt would swim the stream to go up to the barn for a drink of water."—Harper's Magazine.

In 1862 an intimate friend of President Lincoln visited him in Washington, finding him rather depressed in spirits as the result of the reverses then repeatedly suffered by the federal troops.

"This being president isn't all it is supposed to be, is it, Mr. Lincoln?" said his visitor.

"No," Lincoln replied, his eye twinkling for a moment. "I feel sometimes like the Irishman who, after being ridden on a rail, said: 'If it wasn't for the honor av th' thing, I'd rather walk.'"

An old negro was taken ill and called in a physician of his own race to prescribe for him, but the old man did not seem to improve and eventually a white physician was summoned. Soon after his arrival Dr. —— felt the old man's pulse for a moment and then examined his tongue.

"Did your other doctor take your temperature?" he asked.

"I don't know boss," the sick man answered feebly; "I hain't missed anything but my watch as yit."

"I suppose Jerry," said the eminent statesman, looking through his pocketbook for a new dollar bill, "like a lot of other folks nowadays, you would rather have clean money?"

"Oh, that's all right, senator," said the caaman. "I don't care how you make your money."

The Conning Tower

BY FRANKLIN P. ADAMS.

BATTLE SONG OF YE YONGE HOUSEWIFE.

With arms untried, a maiden knight I come upon the field.
My war-song is the kettledrum, a frying pan my shield.
Let fire and iron, steel and blood my youthful heart not daunt,
And let my deeds of valor prove the courage that I vaunt.
The kitchen is the jousting place, my foe the kitchen range,
And I am armed cap-a-pie for this, my tourney strange.
Although a mob-cap be my casque, my steed the clothes-horse be,
The flour of chivalry am I—to death or victory!
Good poker, help! thy stirring aid, good spoon, I ask as well!
Come, egg me on to batter 'gainst the Yeasters infidel!

POLO.

BY MAWRUSS PERLMUTTER.

Waiting around for trade to come in nowadays I might grad so gut be home, I was saying only last week to Kranzlein Reiss, this baseball feller. Nu, he says, why don't you go on this polo game. Whaddye mean a polo game? I says and he tells me how a lot of rich millionaires set down on horse and push all over the place a ball. So I says sure I'll go, so yesterday I and Reiss goes to this polo.

Never in my ganze leutag did I ever see such a narrigfelt. First off, beg to state there was about a thousand oltermobiles there and all of them full of taklim, I give you my word. Then comes on the field eight fellers on two-thirds of a dozen of the nebichen looking little horses you ever seen and they start hitting so a little ball around and everybody hollering and making a schreierei zooming to and fro and I thought wonder what they done and I hear a feller say this here Larry Wasserburg is doing grand, so I hollered too, on account we sold last month on 10 days dating a bill goods to Wasserburg & Yondorf, which they run the Bon Ton Emporium in Buffalo, and a couple decent, respectable fellers too, understand me. Only I was disinpointed on account I didn't see this here, now, Foxhall Kohn, which I am told he pretty near broke his neck playing the game last week. Well, when I heard that I got all of a sudden weak and dizzy in my head and you couldn't get me out of there fast enough. I took a train away and I heard downtown our boys, the American team, won, and I was glad they done so, only you could aser bet me to-no more polo games for me. I might it would be all the time something like that world's serious which I seen on the polo grounds, but on polo grounds they play baseball and the Winter Garden is open in summer, so how I'm going to know anything at all?

Others who saw the match were more ardent about the game. "It's great," said one man last night. "I don't know anything about polo, but I know what I like."

Is Emperor and Father, Too

(Kansas City Star.)

At the wedding banquet given in honor of the wedding of the kaiser's daughter the emperor made a speech to his daughter and her husband. This is reported as follows in the weekly edition of the London Times:

"My dear daughter, today, as you leave our house, I thank you with all my heart for the happiness which you have always given to me and your mother, and for the years of radiant sunshine which you have brought to my house. You have given your hand and your heart to a man of a noble German princely house, and of an ancient German race. As long as and wherever the German banner is heard it will tell of Guelphs and Hohenzollerns who have played such remarkable parts in the historic development of the German fatherland. To you as to few it has been vouchsafed to be able to follow freely the inclination of your heart and to win the man whom you have chosen.

"My dear son, to you I now intrust our child. We both have the fullest confidence that you will guard and cherish her, and that this sunshine will now enter your house. May you, according to the examples of your ancestors, conduct your house in the genuine old simple German way. Build upon God the Lord, and, as your motto says, accept everything from His hand, the good and the bad, ready to bear adversity and to accept with a grateful heart the bright days of good fortune and happiness.

"But, above all else, it will soon, notwithstanding your youth, be granted to you two to serve others and to care for others. May this task, the highest of all, fill your whole lives, and may love for others warm your hearts. May you both, and especially you, my dear daughter, be a loyal child in your new house.

"I beg you both (to the duke and duchess of Cumberland) with all my heart to take our child into your protection and to include her in your love. All else I sum up in the wish—God bless you both upon the road upon which you together today enter. The bridal pair. Hurrah!! Hurrah! Hurrah!

MAY NOT RESTORE CAR LINES ON IVY STREET

Proposition Is Made to Run Ivy Street Cars on Piedmont Avenue Instead

The abandonment of the former street car line on Ivy street from Auburn avenue to Peachtree street, and the running of them on Piedmont avenue instead, was discussed Thursday afternoon by the electric railways committee of council and Preston Arkwright, president of the Georgia Railway & Power Co. The suggestion was advanced some time ago, just after the regrading of Ivy street was begun.

Mr. Arkwright said the company is willing to make the change provided the property owners on Ivy street give their consent, and Councilman George Boynton, chairman of the committee, agreed to undertake to get their consent.

The advantage of the change, as brought out in the discussion, is that it will give one main thoroughfare for traffic into the heart of the city, uninterrupted and unmolested by street cars. Automobiles then can enter Ivy street at Peachtree and thereby relieve much of the congestion on Peachtree between Forrest avenue and Five Points. The result of this increased automobile travel will be to increase property values on Ivy street. As to street car facilities, the residents on Ivy street still will be in easy reach of a car line only one block distant in two directions. That is, they will be one block from the Peachtree lines, and one block from the Courtland street line.

Members of the committee were very favorably impressed by the proposition. Mr. Arkwright did not urge it, but simply said the company will make the change if the property owners consent.

Pending Councilman Boynton's taking the matter up with them, the committee took no action on the company's application for franchises to lay tracks on Ivy street between Auburn and Edgewood avenue, and to lay tracks on Piedmont avenue from Gilmer to Decatur streets.

The Ivy street line, from Auburn avenue to Peachtree street, is now taken up on account of the regrading work. Thus the proposed abandonment of the Ivy street line would mean simply that they would not be restored after the regrading is finished, which will be within a few weeks.

AUTOMOBILIST TO FACE TRIAL FOR BOY'S DEATH

E. H. Dell Indicted for Manslaughter in Connection With Peachtree Road Accident

E. H. Dell, an automobile salesman, who on April 8 ran over and killed little Adolphus Casey on Peachtree road, must stand trial in superior court. An indictment, charging involuntary manslaughter, was returned against Dell by the Fulton grand jury Thursday afternoon.

The bill of indictment set forth that Dell was driving his machine on the left side of the road when the accident occurred and that he was not using the proper precaution in managing it.

Adolphus Casey was the son of Mrs. R. H. N. Casey, who lives on Peachtree road. The lad's father met death by falling off a street car at the same spot two years ago.

Dell, who was arrested shortly after the occurrence and arraigned before a justice of the peace, was released on $2,000 bond. This bond will stand until Dell faces a jury on the manslaughter charge in superior court.

INHERITANCE TAX TO BE PROPOSED IN ASSEMBLY

At Least Two Bills in Sight, Comptroller Wright Doubts Wisdom

Two or more bills providing for the levy of a tax on inheritances will be introduced at the approaching session of the Georgia legislature. One of these bills will be presented by Representative W. F. Slater, of Bryan county, and another by Representative H. H. Swift, of Muscogee.

The Slater bill will provide for a tax on collateral inheritances only. It will not apply to direct inheritances. The Swift bill will seek to impose a tax on all inheritances exceeding $1,000. In years past some effort has been directed toward the enactmeht of inheritance tax laws, but the movement has never been successful.

In the opinion of Comptroller General W. A. Wright the time is not yet ripe for a tax on inheritances. Commenting on the subject the comptroller general says:

"Inheritance tax laws may work all right in states where large estates are numerous, such as some of the states of the north. I hardly think we are ready for such a tax in Georgia, as we ought not to discourage thrift or put anything in the way of the transmission of a man's property to his children.

"I certainly would object to the imposition of a tax on small inheritances. If we should have such a law I would not begin with estates of less than $50,000. Then the tax should be light and increase gradually with the size of the inheritance. I would like, however, to hear a general expression of opinion on the subject."

TO LIMIT GUN-TOTERS, BILLS TO BE OFFERED

A law limiting the sale of pistols and pistol cartridges to persons who are licensed legally to carry an unconcealed pistol will be introduced in the legislature this summer by Representative H. J. Fullbright, of Burke.

Mr. Fullbright's bill will provide that dealer to keep a record of his sales and permitting them to sell pistols and cartridges may sell to any person authorized under the license law of 1910 and to no other. It will also require every dealer to keep a record of his sales and to make a sworn return of them to the ordinary once each month.

The author of the bill believes that if it is enacted into law it will put an end to the carrying of concealed weapons in Georgia, as only persons licensed to carry a pistol openly can purchase pistols and cartridges.

NEW COSMOPOLITAN GETS CERTIFICATES FROM STATE

A certificate showing that the Cosmopolitan Life Insurance company, organized several months ago, had assumed all the outstanding policy obligations of the old Cosmopolitan company and had deposited $100,000 with the state treasurer to protect these policyholders, was issued Thursday afternoon by State Insurance Commissioner W. A. Wright.

The Cosmopolitan Life Insurance company is an entirely new organization and has no relation to the old company beyond the fact that it contracted to assume all outstanding policy obligations of the old company.

CUPID PUTS ANOTHER ONE OVER; ATLANTA MISS WEDS BRAD BYRD

Miss Erin Cunningham and Bradford Byrd, of The Journal, Were Married Thursday Evening at Home of Bride's Parents by Rev. Dr. H. M. DuBose — Surprise? — Well, Somewhat!

Know Bradford Byrd, of The Journal? Well, he's married!

Miss Erin Cunningham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Cunningham, became Mrs. Thomas Bradford Byrd Thursday evening.

They were married at the home of the young lady's parents, 299 East North avenue, by Rev. Dr. H. M. DuBose, pastor of the First Methodist church. Now they are at home for a time at the Kimball.

It was a surprise to Mr. Byrd's friends. It was a surprise to the friends of Miss Cunningham, who now is Mrs. Byrd. It was a surprise to her parents, to his, to the preacher—to everybody except Mr. Byrd, Mrs. Byrd (nee Cunningham), and Judge John R. Wilkinson, the ordinary. Judge Wilkinson says that long experience has taught him to expect anything. He interrupted an enthralling game of solitaire to issue the license at his home early Thursday evening.

Perhaps because a newspaper man's training is to trail news, he is an adept at pulling the wool over his coworkers' eyes. That is why the newspaper fraternity of Atlanta, intent upon several score other matters, overlooked entirely the very important information that Bradford Byrd had met his intended.

Thursday evening Mr. Byrd called one of his associates upon the telephone. "Doing anything this evening?" asked Mr. Byrd. The associate was not. "How would you like to witness a wedding?" pursued Mr. Byrd.

The immediate result was that the ordinary and Dr. DuBose heard about it forthwith from the best man and were engaged in the arrangements. Mr. Byrd and his bride-to-be returned to her home to apprise her parents that they were about to be wed and there and then, and the best man and the matron of honor followed with Dr. DuBose; and the solemn ceremonial of marriage was spoken by the minister as impressively as though the setting were a church banked high with flowers instead of a home wherein a wedding had been unexpected utterly when the family sat down to read for the evening.

Friday morning the thoughts of the single members of Atlanta's fourth estate turned to their best girls fondly. "If Bradford Byrd can slip by the flubdub and just get married, why can't I?" they asked themselves, for newspapermen are skittish about fussy affairs. So the Cunningham-Byrd nuptials may lead to others. The moon is mighty nice these evenings.

Mrs. Byrd is one of Atlanta's most attractive brides of the season. She is cherished already by a host of friends, and her husband will introduce her to a warm welcome among his own friends.

Mr. Byrd, who has been engaged for several years past in newspaper work, has been associated for some time with The Journal as one of its own corps of newsgetters. He is a Floridian by birth and rearing, and started in his home city of Tallahassee upon his newspaper career, working later in Thomasville and coming then to Atlanta some four years ago. He has "covered" a number of notable stories in newspaper history. He is known widely and is held in high regard.

ECZEMA COVERED WHOLE SIDE OF FACE

Blisters Broke. Would Inflame, Itch and Burn. Terrible Sores. Had to Keep Hands Pinned in Towel. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Face Entirely Well.

West Point, Miss.—"When my little boy was three months old a little blister came on his face on the right side. When the blisters broke they would inflame and itch and burn until he scratched it so bad that he made terrible sores and I had to keep his hands pinned down in a towel so he could not raise them at all. Each day it became worse. He had a terrible case of eczema and had not been able to sleep at all he suffered so much.

"We tried two treatments and both failed to cure it. By this time it had covered the whole side of his face, causing disfigurement and had eaten out the white side so deep I could lay a pencil in it. I saw Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertised so highly we began the treatment and it began to get well right straight and stopped spreading. I used the Cuticura Soap to bathe him once a day and the Cuticura Ointment about three times a day. In about one month his little face was entirely well and he has not been bothered any more with it." (Signed) Mrs. Spence Murphy, May. 10, 1912.

APPLICATION FOR BANK CHARTER

GEORGIA, Fulton County—To the Honorable Philip Cook, Secretary of State, Atlanta, Ga.:

The undersigned, whose names, signed by each of them, and residences set forth hereto attached, bring this our petition, in pursuance of an act of the general assembly of the state of Georgia, approved December 20th, 1895, and acts amendatory thereof, and respectfully show:

1st. That we desire a charter for a corporation for the purpose of carrying on the business of banking.

2d. The name and style of the proposed corporation shall be Atlanta State Savings Bank.

3d. The location and principal place of business shall be in the city of Atlanta, county of Fulton, and state of Georgia.

4th. The amount of capital stock is twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000.00), divided into 2,500 shares of $10.00 each.

5th. The nature of the proposed corporation shall be that of a bank, with continuous succession for the term of thirty years, with the right of renewal for a like term. To sue and be sued. To have and use a common seal, and at pleasure to alter the same. To appoint such officers and agents as the business of the corporation requires, prescribe their duties, fix their compensation, and remove them at pleasure. To make such by-laws as may be necessary or proper for the management of its property and regulation of its affairs. To buy, purchase, dispose of and convey such real and personal property as may be necessary for its uses and business. For Some Day It Shall Be Summer Time---Again

THO' June has dared to surprise us with a dash of December, reason reminds that we shall expect a sudden return of summer with a making-up-for-lost-time force.

And such is the time when the softness and naturalness which rule present-day dress shall be appreciated.

Suits of drape-easy fabrics, as genuine Crash, tropical Worsted and silky Mohair, devoid of stiffening and with little lining, form a typical collection of the cool and "care-free" type to make up the wardrobe of the Summer Man.

Neither can they be surpassed for service.

$20, $22.50, $25, $27.50, and $30

Furnishings That Follow

Soft Collars, soft Shirts and abbreviated Under Suits are to have a double welcome when June days shall have come back into their own.

Soft Scarfs of filmy Silks and Crepe, and shirts of real Japanese Silk make the circle of comfort complete.

Market in New York Closed 1 Point Up to 5 Points Off From Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 13.—Cotton opened at an advance of 6 to 10 points on a renewal of Wall street activity. Reports appeared to be spread by firmer Liverpool cables, yesterday's improvement in the stock market and a better feeling in the cotton goods trade. Realizing by old longs was heavy at the advance, while indications for good weather over the week-end encouraged scattered selling for a reaction and prices eased off a point or two in the first hour after the early trading. Covering continued active enough to absorb offerings on the dip and with the market more or less unsettled.

The market was dull late in the forenoon with prices holding steady within a point or two of last night's closing figures at midday. Estimated receipts today 6,000 bales.

Rumors that a Memphis crop report showed an improvement of 2.1 per cent in the condition of the crop since the end of May caused a little flurry of selling early in the afternoon, but business quickly interest-ed again with the market steady within a point or two of last night's closing prices at noon.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, June 13.—Cotton futures opened steady at an advance of 3 to 5 points on good cables. Both sides bought on the first call and immediately after the trading months went 5 to 6 points over yesterday's close.

The more favorable weather may and the forecast of fair weather in the cotton region, with some of more pronounced temperature everywhere, checked the buying movement. Reports that have not been that work in the fields was going ahead, although complaint was made of how temperature. At the end of the first half hour of business prices were 1 to 2 points over yesterday's final figures.

Toward the middle of the morning the market fell off still further under encouraging reports from the belt, points 10 to 12 points higher than yesterday's final figures.

Toward the middle of the morning the market fell off still further under encouraging reports from the belt, points 10 to 12 points higher than yesterday's final figures were cleaner than usual at this time of the year and scattering showers are reported in the more advanced sections. Telegrams from Texas claimed that the first bale from the Corpus Christi section would be shipped around July 1. At the lowest of the morning the trading months were 1 to 2 points under yesterday's final figures. At noon the trading months were unchanged to 1 point under.

Saving and Investing

"Over the Counter."
BY JOHN M. OSKISON

It was good news to me when I read the other day that a department store in St. Paul had decised to take $100,000 of city improvement bonds and put them on sale in the same way that the store sells other merchandise. Here was the first attempt I had ever heard of to sell literally what the bond merchants have been doing, theoretically, for a long time—sell interest-bearing securities "over the counter."

Now a city bond ought to be as staple an article of merchandise as a particular brand of shoes or underclothes. Any storekeeper ought to be able to supply a good bond to any inquirer—assuming, of course, that he is running an establishment in which everybody's wants are to be supplied.

Big stores have gone into the banking business in certain of its branches, and there is no reason why all of them should not have the machinery to handle bonds of certain approved kinds.

I don't know, of course, that the advertising value of the St. Paul store's experiment is going to be great. I should guess, however, that it will be.

Did you ever get the chance to run over the circular sent out by an investment banking house, calling attention to an issue of securities the house desired to sell? Get one if you can, and observe the great amount of detail which is compressed into the circular's pages. You get, in summary, the complete history of the company issuing the security, and at the end, if you have been satisfied with the fundamental point of whether or not the statements of the bankers can be believed, there will remain a clear picture in your mind of the real value of the security.

It ought to be possible for you to get such circulars at any high-class store whose facilities are adequate for the investigation of bankers and brokers. What such stores shall offer can be regulated as well as the activities of the bankers themselves.

Put bonds on sale in the department stores, and at once (through store advertising) you start the biggest campaign for educating the investor that has ever been undertaken.

FINANCIAL BUREAU ON STOCKS

NEW YORK, June 13.—Financial bureau says: The bulls are pointing with confidence to political and financial situation here and abroad and the decision of the Union Pacific dissolution plan have influenced better support from the banking interests and as a result of the almost panic levels reached by the standard stocks. Besides the volume of outside absorption is reported to be large and the professional bear is showing little more confidence on moderate recessions with the intention to hold for good profits. Information channels are more favorable.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET FIRM IN LATE TRADING

Union Pacific, Reading, Petroleum, Copper, General Electric and Can Led Upward

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 13.—Small and irregular changes occurred at the opening of the stock market today. Some of the stocks prominent in yesterday's advance reacted on the first sales. Southern Pacific, Great Northern, Atchison, St. Paul and Canadian Pacific opened off, Canadian Pacific's decline being 1%. Reading was in brisk demand, rising nearly a point. Utah Copper and Can advanced a point and Louisville 1%. New Haven reflected last night's spurt with a decline of 2 points to below par.

Weakness of Lehigh Valley, which fell 1½, caused moderate selling, but the market soon developed pronounced strength. Covering of shorts was the chief impelling force. Union Pacific, Reading, Northern Pacific and the Copper stocks were the leaders in the rise.

Although the buoyant forward movement in stocks of yesterday was continued for a time today it was not attended by the same widespread and sufficiently broad demand to hold the market steadily at the opening.

Outside orders came in freely for a time as the result of yesterday's advance and professional operators who had been expecting the decline bought hurriedly. Investment buying, which was in the nature of yesterday's market was in much smaller amount and after the first urgent requirements of the shorts had been filled the buying diminished.

Gradually the market fell back again until by noon the morning's rise had been lost.

Canadian Pacific, which dropped 3 points under yesterday's close, led the decline.

Bonds strong.

Bear selling coming up after standard stocks had been depressed a half point below yesterday's closing. Speculation then became stupid and dull, with prices unchanged a trifle.

With a probable gain in cash of $8,000,000 by the banks on the week, the effect of the strenuous liquidation in the forepart of the week, bears were inclined to take no chances in the stocks and the market moved up again. The average rally was nearly a point.

Aggressive buying influence greater strength and traders thought the pace too fast. They took profits, which sent prices off a point or a peg, but renewed buying was evident toward the close.

LONDON STOCKS

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, June 13.—The fact that the worst settlement since the occurrence of the American panic has concluded on the stock exchange today with only two small failures has done much to restore confidence here. Prices improved in all directions and the markets closed firm. Consols showed an ½ better.

American securities opened steady and about unchanged. Prices advanced during the first half hour, but later the upward movement flurried and most of the list fell below parity under realizing. The closing was steady.

J. TURNER ESTIMATES CONDITIONS.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 13.—Cotton crop condition as of date of June 10. In compiling these figures the reports of the United States department of agriculture of date of June 25 are used as a basis and the percentages given hereafter are made to compare with the condition of that authority as of May 25 last, showing thereby the improvement or deterioration in the crop that has occurred within the fifteen days.

STATE.	June 10.	May 25.
North Carolina	80	76
South Carolina	77	73
Georgia	77	69
Florida	79	75
Mississippi	77	73
Tennessee	86	87
Arkansas	86	87
Louisiana	80	81
Oklahoma	87	87
Texas	85	84
United States	82	77

The notable improvement shown in eastern states for the month of June, during which have given generally good stands and put the soil, where formerly dry and cloddy, into good tilth. The general improvement in the southtenth ample rain had fallen and that further extended precipitation has given a great impetus to cultivation as to make grass a threatening factor. Even Texas, with a full crop, is showing more than a real menace. In the Mississippi Valley and the cotton conditions generally are in a most ready high, the status was maintained. Plant growth, while not phenomenal, has been as rapid as desired, but the young plant is quite thrifty.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast till 7 p. m. Saturday.

Atlanta and vicinity: Fair tonight and Saturday.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

Fine weather prevails over the entire country east of the Rocky mountains except that small amounts of rain fell in southern Texas and in the northern section of Florida, and in places where clear skies prevailed, but the weather is fair. Except in the extreme northwest temperatures being below sixty degrees at Asheville, N. C., Lynchburg, Va., and Knoxville, Tenn., it is much warmer far to the north, exceeding seventy degrees in the lake region and St. Lawrence valley.

The area of high barometer now covers the central Ohio valley and Middle states with only diminished pressure.

The pressure is low in the Canadian northwest, with high temperatures in that section. Generally speaking, the weather in the upper part of the plateau region and on the north Pacific coast is unsettled.

Fair weather is indicated for Atlanta and vicinity tonight and Saturday. Temperatures will continue to rise slowly.

WEDDINGS

Cunningham-Byrd

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Cunningham announce the marriage of their daughter, Erin, to Mr. Bradford Byrd, the wedding having taken place at the home of the bride's parents on North avenue, Dr. H. M. DuBose, of the First Methodist church, officiating.

Van Epps-Hanson

A wedding of interest throughout Georgia and Tennessee was that of Miss Minnie Van Epps to Mr. Robert Graham Hanson, Jr., which was solemnized Thursday evening at 9 o'clock at the home of the bride's cousin, Mrs. Richard Johnston, on Peachtree street.

The wedding party was completed by Miss Isabelle Thomas, of Athens, the bride entering with her brother, Mr. George Dudley Van Epps, who gave her away.

Miss Agnes Hanson was maid of honor and the groom's best man was Mr. Charles Baumgartner, of Bristol.

The wedding party was completed by the little cousins of the bride, Misses Isabel and Pamela Johnston, who were ribbon-bearers.

The bride was very lovely and dainty in her gown of white brocade satin trimmed with real lace, the corsage of filmy lace embroidered in seed pearls. Her tulle veil was caught to her hair by a chaplet of orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of white Killarney roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Hanson, who is blond, like her pretty sister-in-law, was beautiful in a gown of white lace, a touch of color added by the pink roses she carried. The little ribbon-bearers wore exquisite hand-made frocks of Irish lace worn over pink silk slips, pink sashes and pink hair ribbons giving another touch of rose color.

Dr. Dunbar Ogden was the officiating minister and the ceremony was followed by a buffet supper.

The decorations of the house were beautiful, palms and ferns contrasting with masses of white hydrangeas and snowy ferns forming a background for the wedding group, the same luxuriant foliage plants with pink roses being used in the other rooms of the handsome home, which has been the scene of several interesting weddings.

Punch was served in the sun parlor by Miss Jennie Buford Hanson and Miss Alice Muse. The bride's cake, beautifully embossed, was made by "Aunt Laura," one of the few old negroes who are left of the old days and who made the wedding cake for the bride's mother.

Mrs. Johnston wore a gown of black chiffon cloth, and was assisted in receiving by the bride's aunts, Mrs. W. W. Thomas, of Macon; Mrs. George Thomas, of Athens, and Mrs. Carlton Hillyer, of Augusta, with Mrs. George Muse, Mrs. Norwood Mitchell, Mrs. A. M. Thomas, Miss Ella May Thornton, the Misses Thomas, of Athens; Mr. R. G. Hanson and Miss Hanson, of Bristol.

Mr. and Mrs. Hanson left for a short stay north and on their return will make their home in Bristol.

Wright-Selman

The marriage of Miss Marie Wright and Mr. Jamie Thomas Selman took place on Thursday evening at half after six o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Jefferson Wright, Rev. B. F. Fraser, pastor of St. Paul's church, officiating.

The wedding party included Mrs. W. R. Anglin, of Chicago, matron of honor, and Miss Annie Love Selman, of Douglasville, maid of honor. Misses Edith and Maud Couch, Miss Ruby Mratin and Miss Doris Starnes were the young ribbon bearers and Mr. Joseph Mac Selman was his brother's best man.

The bride was given away by her father the ceremony being performed before an altar of palms and ferns the letters W. S. showing against the green in a monogram of small incandescent lights the letters changing at the close of the service to a large S, which gave the only light to the lovely picture formed by the wedding party.

The service was followed by a reception, the bride and groom being assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Wright and the groom's mother, Mrs. J. L. Selman, of Douglasville.

The bride wore a gown of white charmeuse combined with princess lace and seed pearls. Her veil was caught to her hair by a chaplet of orange blossoms and her bouquet was bride roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Anglin's gown was blue charmeuse trimmed pearls and lace and Miss Selman wore a gown of pink crepe de chine over satin, both young women carrying bouquets of pink roses. The white gowns and colored sashes of the little ribbon bearers added to the attractive group.

Quantities of palms ferns and pink roses were used in the elaborate decoration of the home, those who assisted in entertaining being a group of young girls including Miss Ruth Scully, Miss Annie Scully, Miss Margaret Ennis and Miss Lois Verner with Mrs. D. O. Martin, Mrs. Marvin Conway, Mrs. M. G. Couch, Mrs. A. M. Verner, Mrs. J. T. Spurgeon, Mrs. Guy Webb, Mrs. Albert Braswell, Mrs. J. H. Owen and Mrs. B. F. Fraser.

The bride's book was in charge of Miss Esther Solomon and Miss Katie Calhoun and punch was served from two bowls by Miss May Corrie Jennings, Miss Edna May, Miss Julia Stokes, Mrs. D. R. Longino and Mrs. J. G. Cowan.

Mrs. Wright wore a gown of cream colored brocade and Mrs. Selman, the groom's mother, wore a gown of gray crepe meteor.

Flag Day

Flag day will be observed Saturday afternoon by the Joseph Habersham chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at a reception to be given at the home of Mrs. William Lawson Peel, on Peachtree road. Every member of the chapter is cordially invited to be present.

UP-TO-DATE DRUGGISTS GIVE YOU WHAT YOU ASK FOR

The Old Joke About "Something Just as Good" Doesn't Apply Any Longer.

You have probably heard dozens of times the old story that a drug store was a place to "get something just as good." There is at least one medicine in the world that no sane druggist will try to offer a substitute for.

It is certain that an inferior article should never be substituted for a safe, reliable remedy for constipation and trouble Like Dodson's Liver Tone. Nevertheless, this harmless vegetable liquid has proved so satisfactory a liver stimulant and reliever of biliousness, as to entirely take the place of calomel without any danger of restriction of habits or diet, that there are dozens of preparations springing up with imitations of its claims.

But Dodson's Liver Tone is guaranteed to do all that is claimed for it and if you are not satisfied with it, the druggist who sold it to you will hand your money back with a smile. Any person going to his drug store for a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will be sure of getting a large bottle of this genuine remedy in exchange for his half dollar. —(Advt.)

The "Self-Interest League" of America

The most natural, the most human, if not the most altruistic bond, is that of self-interest.

There are thousands of associations, leagues and societies all over the country that bear witness to the uniting force of a common, personal cause.

The biggest society in the country is one that has no president, no by-laws, nor, in fact any specified organization. Yet practically every man and woman belongs to it.

It is the Society of Newspaper Readers. Their only bond is that of self-interest.

All men and women know that in order to be able to hold their own with their neighbors they must learn what the newspapers have to tell them, not only in regard to general events of the day, but also in regard to the specific activities of the locality in which they live.

The advertisements in reliable newspapers like THE JOURNAL are no less important and are very apt to be of more lasting value in this matter of self-interest.

Being a member of the league means that you are up-and-doing, progressive, and alive to your own welfare.

The Atlanta Journal

What Anne Rittenhouse Says

The French women have been appearing at the early summer races in a variety of lace gowns, it was foretold that this fabric would be immensely fashionable as soon as the warm weather came in and it was. The letters say that many of the laces used were exceedingly costly, others were heirlooms, and all of them presented pictorial effects.

It was natural that the lace should be draped and not used in straight lines for this manipulation brought out all the skill of the best artists in Paris. This drapery was full in front at the waist line and was lifted well above the ground to show the ankles. This fashion prevails in all the new gowns. It has become the rival of the slash and is very much prettier. It is Oriental, and not directoire and gives the effect of a woman having tucked her skirt up under the belt in front in order to get it out of the way when she walks, but it can be and often is, very badly done.

If the skirt was tight and without fulness the effect would be ugly, but with the drapery from the waist line giving fulness over the instep, this uplift gives rather a good line. The old fashion is revived of wearing flesh pink stockings under a black boot slashed in front, or a slipper which has crossed ribbons tied about the ankles.

The Japanese Hem.

As opposed to the skirt that is lifted up from the ground in front and just touches at the sides and back, there is another new skirt which is cut after the Japanese idea and is so long all around that it is wonder how any one can walk in it. It lies on the ground full fifty inches in front and the narrow slash at the right side is barely visible when the material swirls around the figure.

The hem of such a skirt is sometimes rolled and padded in imitation of the Japanese kimonos and artists like Fromet who are exploiting all the Japanese apparel features think that this kind of hem is quite a good touch. It is certainly a novelty.

The average woman will probably never be persuaded to wear it, for she cannot see herself walking in it, and yet those who have tried it find it as easy to manage as the much shorter, tight skirt; but is not for the street.

If one dances in such a skirt it is more easily held up than any other kind, especially as there is a loop about three inches long hidden under the hem at the back into which one after the hand whenever the gown is to be held up. It is astonishing how much easier this kind of skirt is managed in the evening than the full ones of other days which would always drag on the floor no matter how well one gathered it up. It was a nuisance when one tried to get in and out of a carriage or keep it up from the wet or snow when crossing the pavements from curb to portico.

There is no doubt that the extra long skirt with its padded Japanese hem is better for the evening than the afternoon, and that this skirt draped in front at the waist line and slightly shortened to show the instep is the most comfortable one to walk in that women have worn for three years.

How Lace Will Be Worn.

Black lace is not worn as much as white lace for gowns this spring, but it is equally smart. It is mounted over thin black taffeta or satin and arranged in flounces that go around the figure and give the effect of a tunic from waist half way to knee. Even though there is an interlining of chiffon or net between the satin and the lace, and even though both the outer fabrics are draped, the whole effect is that of attenuation.

There is no increase in the dimensions of the silhouette no matter how much cloth is used in the making of the gown of today, and however the lines may zigzag across the figure.

With the white lace gowns there is usually an interlining of white net and sometimes the first lining is of a color instead of white. Even turquoise blue and hunters pink are used for the slim foundations, which support a mass of net or chiffon and lace.

The girdles are usually elaborate and colored. They have long streamers at the sides or back, or they are finished flatly with a fancy buckle, sometimes made of flowers. The new idea is to make them of Chinese or Japanese silk.

THE EVENING STORY — Disc pline

(Copyright, 1913, by W. Werner.)

"But, Miss Sawyer, I make my pupils understand that I must be obeyed." Lucile Karrell pursued her, pretty lips primly and threw a proud glance into the room behind her, the second grade, where rows of little heads were turned inquisitively toward the two teachers.

Kitty Sawyer bit her lips to keep back an impatient retort that keeping order among a room of second grade babies and managing the boisterous, half-grown boys and girls of the difficult seventh grade were two entirely different things.

"Rush," said Kitty. "Are you sure?"

Her own glance went to a saucy baby in dainty blue linen in the front seat of the row nearest the corridor door—a little, spoiled, shiny with black curls, whom Arthur Hart, aged fourteen, had been accused of teasing.

"Arthur says he didn't mean to hurt her—he merely shook her because she wouldn't get out of the way when they were playing ball at recess," she explained as suavely as possible. "You know Mildred is spoiled, Miss Karrell. Perhaps she exaggerated."

Lucile Karrell shook her head indignantly. "Nonsense! He is a big rough boy. And I will certainly report it to Professor Reed," she said. She went back to her pupils, and Kitty hurried upstairs to her own brood, where she lectured Arthur, a sullen, rather good-looking boy, severely, and extorted a reluctant promise that he would avoid trouble in the future.

Kitty was glad that it was Friday afternoon and a trying week was about to end—the last week of the first month of the school year. She was tidying her desk, the last scholar had trooped out and old Jensen, the janitor, was emptying the waste basket, when Prof. Reed stepped in. He was a keen-eyed young man, with all the poise that four years at Harvard give and distinctive contrast to old Prof. Hale, who had resigned at the beginning of the year on account of ill health. Kitty had never minded when gray-whiskered old Prof. Hale came in, his face stern and his eyes twinkling, to learn why she couldn't make those young limbs toe the mark. But Prof. Reed embarrassed her. She always had the impression that he was contrasting her with Lucile. So now she answered briefly that Arthur had promised to bring no guns any more. Reed lingered a minute, evidently wanting to talk further, but her air of reserve did not encourage him, and finally he withdrew. A moment later she saw him go down the street with Lucile. Both were talking gayly.

Kitty closed her desk slowly. Somehow Lucile stirred all the latent discontent of her ordinarily contented disposition. Kitty as the oldest of eight children had got an education more by dogged will power than by any other means. A day at school had been followed by two days at home caring for one of the ever arriving babies. Her father was a shiftless laborer, who worked when the spirit moved him, which was not regularly. Her mother was always tired and ailing. When she finally got a certificate, and after two years in the country schools a town grade, her monthly check immediately moved the family from penury to comfort. Now she was bending every effort to pull two young sisters to the same goal and help the eldest boy to the trades school that he longed for.

Lucile Karrell was the only daughter of the prosperous village banker. She had spent two years in an exclusive boarding school, two years at Vassar, and then when she came home went into the schools from a whim that she called a desire to be in the world and other people called a desire to pose. It probably was a mixture of both. She was a pretty girl in a prim, dainty blond style. Kitty was better looking, with dark blue eyes, but she was not so well groomed. Lucile always wore dainty dresses. Her scholars proudly boasted that their teacher wore the prettiest clothes in town. The Karrell laundress threatened every week to quit. Kitty, with her plain serge skirt and three not remarkable shirt waists, was envious when she had time. But she seldom had time. The seventh grade is not the kind to allow its teacher much opportunity for mental leisure. And at home there was always enough work to root out idle repinings. This afternoon she hurried, anxious to cut out a new skirt for herself, baste up a house dress for her mother, and learn how Neil, who was in the third year high school, had got along with an essay that she had been worrying over the evening before.

But Neil had no thought for the essay. She came flying to meet her sister and pulled her into the side porch where the family could not hear. Neil's pretty young face flushed with anger and her eyes snapped. "Say, Kitty," she began furiously, "do you know that Lucile Karrell is trying to make Prof. Reed put you out and let her have the seventh grade?—says you have no discipline and your scholars are developing into rascals.

She dropped into a chair exhausted.

Kitty. Kitty went down to the second grade and promptly reduced the spoiled Mildred, who was crying for her Miss Karrell, to submission.

At noon she did not see Lucile, who lived a block north of the school house, and skipped out of the rear door. But she passed Arthur aHrt in the corridor, and he grinned at her with an implied understanding she could not comprehend. At 2:30 Professor Reed came in to see how she was getting along. Kitty shrugged her shoulders scornfully, but she did not explain that a person would have to be very stupid not to control a small room of demure babies. Except Mildred, they were all shy, well-behaved youngsters. He went away without comment.

At 3:30, twenty minutes after the lower grades had been dismissed, Kitty was startled by a wild uproar in the corridor above. She ran out. A mob of young savages were whooping, shrieking, yelling and laughing, while Lucile, her face red and her lip trembling, tried in vain to get them into an orderly line. The noise had drawn the other teachers, and Prof. Reed hurried from his office. His sharp word brought the boys and girls to time. They fell into line and marched out. Lucile ran downstairs to her own room and fairly slammed her notebooks and pencils into place. Kitty, Prof. Reed and the other teachers followed. Most of the others were stifling their laughter. Kitty waited.

"I wouldn't teach that room for a million dollars," stormed Lucile. "I never put in such a day. They threw spitballs, they dared me to stop them. They ought to be in the reform school. They have no more idea of politeness——" She dropped into a chair, exhausted. "How do you manage them?" she demanded of Kitty.

"The best any one can," Prof. Reed interposed. "I thought——" He broke off. Lucile's drooping head with its eyes laughed into Kitty's. "I used to teach a seventh grade," he said, in his old decisive way.

He walked down the street with Kitty ten minutes later, and somehow she ceased to regret old graywhiskered Prof. Hale. There was a sympathetic light in Prof. Reed's eyes that assured her. She ceased to envy Lucile. And when her younger brother told her after supper that Arthur Hart had fixed that "doll face" so she wouldn't want Kitty's place it is to be feared that Kitty did not feel as severely toward Arthur as an earnest disciplinarian should.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BED TIME

By Thornton W. Burgess

Reddy Fox had boasted that he was not afraid of the unknown stranger who had frightened Peter Rabbit so, and whose voice in the night had brought the great fear to the Green Meadows and the Green Forest. But Reddy Fox is always boasting, and a boaster is seldom very brave. Right down deep in his heart Reddy was afraid. What he was afraid of he didn't know. That is one reason that he is afraid. He is always afraid of things that he doesn't know about. Do you know, it is a pretty good plan to be afraid of things you don't know about? Old Granny Fox has taught Reddy that.

"If you are afraid of things you don't know about and just keep away from them they never will hurt you," said wise old Granny Fox, and that is one reason that Farmer Brown's boy had never been able to catch her in a trap. But Granny was too smart to boast that she wasn't afraid when she was, while Reddy was forever bragging of how brave he was, when all the time he was one of the greatest cowards among all the little meadow and forest people.

When he had first heard that strange voice little cold chills had chased each other up and down his backbone, just as they had with nearly all the others who had heard it, and Reddy had not gone hunting that night But Reddy stomach doesn't let one think of much else. So after a day or two Reddy grew hungry enough to go hunting. Somehow he had a feeling that it was safer to hunt during the day than during the night. You see it was only after jolly, round, red Mr. Sun had gone to bed behind the Purple Hills that a big appetite and a hungry that the strange voice was heard, and Reddy guessed that perhaps the stranger slept during the day.

So Reddy started out very early in the morning, stepping as softly as he knew how, looking behind every bush and tree, and with his sharp little ears wide open to catch every sound. Every wind very carefully, for Reddy's nose can tell him of things which his eyes do not see and his ears do not hear. And all the time he was ready to run at first sign of danger. He had left the Green Forest and was out on the Green few feet he stopped and sniffed the the first sign of danger. He had left the Meadows, hoping to catch Danny Meadow Mouse, when that sharp little nose was tickled by one of the Merry Little Breezes with a smell that Reddy knew. Reddy turned and went in the direction from which the Merry Little Breeze had come. Just a few steps he went and then he stopped and sniffed.

"Um-m-m," said Reddy to himself; "that smells to me like chicken. It certainly does smell like chicken!"

Very, very slowly and carefully Reddy moved forward in the direction from which that delicious smell came. Every few steps he stopped and sniffed. Sniff, sniff, sniff! Yes, it certainly was chicken. Reddy's mouth watered. A few more steps, and there, a little way in front of him, apparently hidden in a clump of tall grass and bushes, lay a half-eaten chicken. Reddy stopped short and sat down to it. Then he looked all around it to see if there was any one about. Then he walked clear around it in a circle, but he was very careful not to go too near. Finally he sat down again where he could smell the chicken. His mouth hung out with longing, and water dripped from the corners of his mouth His stomach said, "To get it," but his head said, "Don't go any nearer; it may be a sort of a trap."

Then Reddy remembered one of the sayings of wise old Granny Fox:

When you are tempted very much
Just turn your back and go away;
Temptation then can not harm you,
But only those who choose to stay.

"I hate to do it, but I guess it's the best way," said Reddy . ox, and turned his back on the chicken and trotted away.

AMERICAN FASHIONS

By Lillian Young.

With all the new materials, new colors, and new fashions, *there is one ma*terial, color and fashion that is bound to revert as inevitably as furs in winter and straw hats in summer—the tailored suit of white serge; and though it seems early to think of one it is not too soon to plan for one. With the variety of smart, short jackets now in vogue and the straight or draped good looking walking skirts the possibilities of the white suit are most promising and attractive.

This year white ratine and white tennis flannel will be used just as much and possibly more than serge, but the latter is more practical and every bit as smart.

The design of the sketch should prove a pleasing one for such a suit. With it may be worn soft lingerie or white silk blouses. The skirt is quite straight and plain, made with a raised waistline and very slightly gathered across the back sides.

The jacket is exceedingly jaunty and cut on youthful lines. The sleeves are cut in one with the body portion, and the sash, which is knotted loosely in front, is cut in one with the back extending below the hip line. A short, square section, button trimmed above and below the belt, is set in at either side under the sash. There are turned back collars and cuffs of white ratine, which can be removed and washed without difficulty. White enamelled ball buttons should be used.

Many of the outing suits have jackets, made much on these lines, of scarlet, cerise, emerald green, or mustard color, and are worn with white flannel skirts. The separate outing jackets of a solid color have taken the place of last year's blazer.

A Smart Design for a White Serge Suit.

Prison Where Payne Wrote Eternal Song Is Being Torn Down

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

DALTON, Ga., June 13.—A small log cabin, used by Murray county as a jail prior to the removal of the Indians from this section, and made of decidedly historic interest as being once the prison of John Howard Payne, the illustrious composer of "Home, Sweet Home," is this week being torn down by workmen, the old cabin having fallen into a bad state of decay.

Numerous articles concerning the log cabin have been printed, and in a re*cent history of Murray county it was* claimed that Payne wrote his masterpiece while an inmate of the house, then used as a jail.

The cabin was one of the two-landmarks standing while Indians occupied this section. The other the Chief Van house in Spring Place, which was older than the cabin, is yet in good repair.

To Miss Baker

Miss Lavinia Johnson will entertain at tea early next week at the Georgian Terrace in compliment to her guest, Miss Elizabeth Baker, of Macon.

Mrs. Howard's Bridge Party

The bridge party at which Mrs. Chesley B. Howard entertained Friday morning at her home on Piedmont avenue was a lovely compliment to Miss Muriel Hall, a bride-elect.

A profusion of sweet peas formed the decoration of the rooms, the same beautiful flowers being used in the dining room where a buffet luncheon was served at the close of the game.

The trophies for top score and consolation were dainty pieces of hand made lingerie, and the guest of honor was presented a piece of lingerie and a French fan as a souvenir of the occasion.

Mrs. Howard received her guests wearing a white lingerie gown paneled with lace.

Invited to meet Miss Hall were Miss Frances Connally, Miss Josephine Storey, Miss Fannie Turner, Miss Margaret Nutting, Miss Sarah Cowles, Miss Mac Stephens, Miss Nell Parks, Miss Edith Watts, Miss Louise Watts, Miss Natalie Hammond, Miss Laura Wyatt, Miss Jennie Knox, Mrs. Harry Robinson, of Charleston, Mrs. Lyman Hall, Mrs. John D. Wing, Mrs. Frank Spain, Mrs. Robert W. Hunt, Mrs. Carroll Putnam Lord and Mrs. Frank Smith.

Among those invited are Miss Muriel Hall, Miss May Hancker, Miss Edith Watts, Miss Louise Watts, Miss Nan Stephens, Mrs. Carroll Putnam Lord, Mrs. George Kent Varden, Mrs. Benjamin Blount Weaver, Mrs. Harry Robertson, of Charleston, and Mrs. Chesley B. Howard.

To Miss Clarke

Mrs. George Haugh will be at home informally Saturday afternoon from 4 to 6 at her home, 513 North Boulevard, in compliment to Miss Jennie Thornley Clarke, who is spending several days in the city en route from Europe.

All of Miss Clarke's former friends and pupils are cordially invited to call.

Informal Luncheon

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Honour entertained Tuesday at luncheon at their home on North Peachtree road.

Those invited were Rev. W. H. McMaster, D.D., Ph.D., of Blairsville, Penn.; Rev. Edward A. McMaster, of Saratoga Springs, N. Y.; Mr. Harry J. McMaster, of Sebring, Ohio, and Miss Maggie McMaster.

To Mrs. Seydel

Mrs. J. A. Woolley has hostess at an informal sewing party Friday morning in compliment to Mrs. Paul Seydel, of New York, who is the guest of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Vasser Woolley.

The guests of the occasion included Mrs. Seydel, Mrs. Vasser Woolley, Mrs. Ernest Blair Durham, Mrs. Homer Davis, Mrs. A. C. Woolley, Mrs. J. F. Hallman, Mrs. M. A. Dunn, Miss Anna Terhune and Miss Virginia Woolley.

To Mrs. Benson

In compliment to Mrs. Marion T. Benson, of Atlanta, who is the guest of Mrs. Guy Paine, Mrs. Paine will entertain today four tables of players at bridge on Peachtree circle. Mrs. Llewellyn Hilyer will entertain for the visitor, and on Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Hillyer, Mr. and Mrs. Paine and Mrs. Benson will motor to Gainesville to spend the week-end with Mrs. Benson's father, Mr. H. C. Bagley.—Macon Telegraph.

Wesley Hospital Shower

Of all Methodists, those of Georgia should be the most eager to do honor to the name of John Wesley, for it was to the borders of this state he first came to America. Ministers are requested to preach a sermon before June 28 on the beautiful example of the life of Wesley, at the conclusion of same to urge their respective congregations to be generous in their giving to the hospital shower on June 28. The vast amount of charity treatments should alone prompt liberal donations.

EXCURSION TO TYBEE ON CENTRAL JUNE 20

Special Round Trip Rate of $6 for Week's Stay at Resort Is Offered

The Central of Georgia railway, the Georgia, Southern and Florida railway, the Atlantic Coast Line railroad, the Seaboard Air Line railway and the Florida East Coast railway are offering an excursion to Tybee on June 20.

A special train, consisting of first class coaches and Pullman drawing-room sleeping cars, will leave Atlanta over the Central at 9 o'clock on the night of the 20th. The stay at Tybee will last for six days, the round trip costing $6 railroad fare.

As the circular advertising the excursion points out, this is a fine chance to spend a week at one of the most beautiful and popular resorts on the Atlantic coast, forty-five minutes from Savannah, with modern hotel accommodations and plenty of fun and frolic in the cool surf.—(Advt.)

OVER-INSURANCE VOID, HIGH COURT'S DECREE

Despite the fact that the agent who issued the policies knew fully ten days before the fir that subsequent insurance which overinsured the stock had been taken out, and not only failed to warn the insured but solicited further insurance, the supreme court of Georgia handed down a decision Friday morning sustaining a non-suit in the case of Beasley vs. the Phoenix Insurance company and the Athens Mutual Insurance company.

The grounds of the court in upholding the decision of the judge were based upon the written contracts of the policy which expressly forbid the taking out of additional insurance on stock for which sufficient protection was already extant.

Under such conditions fire insurance cannot be collected.

MARIST RIFLES TO GIVE MINSTREL FRIDAY NIGHT

A minstrel show will be staged at the Marist college auditorium at 8:15 o'clock Friday night under the auspices of Company G, Fifth regiment, otherwise known as the Marist Rifles. The proceeds will go to the company.

The program prepared for the evening is really class. The best of local talent will take part. Mrs. Frank Pearson, recognized as one of the foremost singers in the city, will render several solos, and Miss Hazel Massey will sing some character ballads.

Miss Warfield, in classic dancing, is another feature.

There will be a quartet, composed of Fleet Johnston, Dan Stevens, Wallace and Claybourne. Others who will take part are "Sis" Falvey, Frank Pearson, Paul Fields, Benny Clyburn and Messrs. Maurer and Wilby.

TWO MEDALS GIVEN AT GUARD'S RIFLE SHOOT

C. C. Smith Gets Daniel Trophy and E. C. Hale Gets Dunwoody Medal

Two medal winners were decided Friday morning at the rifle shoot of the national guard of Georgia at the range near Fort McPherson. They were Major C. C. Smith, of Atlanta, winner of the Daniel medal for the best score at 200 yards slow fire; and Private E. C. Hale, winner of the Dunwoody medal for the best score at 200 yards surprise fire.

The Kicklighter medal for the best score at 600 yards, slow fire, will be contested for Friday afternoon. On Saturday the winners of the Stockdell medal for highest aggregate individual and team scores at 200 yards, slow fire, and the Crankshaw medal for the champion rifle shot of Georgia, or the highest total score, will be decided.

The following team trophies will be awarded Saturday: Anderson trophy, for the highest aggregate score in team matches; Sanford trophy, for the second highest, and Paxon trophy for the third highest. The following teams are shooting for these: First team of the Second infantry, 416 out of possible 500; First team of the Sixth infantry, 414 out of possible 500; Third battalion team, 388 out of possible 500.

The contest for the Daniel medal was a close one. Major Smith and Sergeant O. J. Metcalf tied for first place with a score of 86 out of 100, but Major Smith was awarded the trophy for scoring the most bulls-eyes. Captain R. J. Taylor came third with 76 out of 100.

Private E. C. Hale copped the Dunwoody medal by rinsing up 37 out of a possible 100. S. P. Cronheim came second with 94, and A. S. Brown came third with 90.

The individual matches will be decided Friday afternoon after Friday's team matches are closed, when Friday's marks for the individuals will be taken separately from the team aggregates and added to the individual totals already made.

The scores for highest individual matches through Friday morning's shooting are as follows. The scores are computed out of a possible 400:

investigation of Judge Emory Speer, which is being conducted by J. L. Lewis, and which is understood to have been under consideration or in progress for several weeks.

It is understood, however, that the attorney general is familiar with the complaints and charges against Judge Speer, and it is the belief here that the investigation now under way was ordered directly by McReynolds.

The charges that Judge Speer is under investigation and that the inquiry may be attended by serious results in so far as he himself is concerned will create widespread interest in Georgia.

That the charges against Judge Speer, if established, will furnish the basis of proceedings in congress, is the belief of lawyers who are familiar with their nature.

While it is not known definitely in Washington, there is a strong suspicion that Colonel W. A. Huff, of Macon, who has been a litigant before Speer for many years and who had written some salty cards about the judge, may furnish some damaging information relating directly to his prosecution for contempt of Judge Speer's court.

Judge Speer has been on the federal bench since March 4, 1885, when his nomination by the then President Arthur was confirmed by a single vote in the United States senate. This vote was cast by Joseph E. Brown, then a senator from Georgia, and was the only Democratic vote received by Speer.

HOT WEATHER EN ROUTE FOR CHILLED ATLANTA

The cold spell of the past few days is on the wane, and according to the prediction at the local office of the weather bureau Friday morning, the temperature will get back to normal June figures by Sunday and will soon be succeeded by the usual summer heat.

The best figure the mercury reached Thursday night was 58 degrees which is somewhat higher than it was Wednesday night. At 7 o'clock the mercury had risen above 60 and was climbing rapidly. The expectation was that it would top 80 degrees during the day.

The forecast is fair for the remainder of the week. The weather man looks for a temperature of about 60 degrees Friday night and figures in the 80's Saturday.

GIRL REFUSES REFORM; POLICE ARE PUZZLED

Police officials are puzzled as to how to deal with Fern Smith, a pretty sixteen-year-old girl taken from a house at 582 Simpson street by members of Chief Beavers' vice squad.

Lula Burbig and W. D. Terry, arrested in the same place Wednesday night, were tried before Recorder Pro Tem Preston Thursday afternoon and bound over to the higher court on an immoral conduct charge. Three other men who were also captured in the house were fined $10 and costs each.

Testimony showed that the girl had been living in the house for several weeks. Friday afternoon she will be used as a witness against Raymond Darnell, of East Lake, who is also charged with being a frequenter of the place.

Thursday afternoon, after the Burbig woman had been tried, Recorder Pro Tem Preston called the girl into the court room and asked her if she would be willing to go to the Martha's home. She refused the offer. In answer to questions she said that she came from South Carolina three months ago and that her father and mother were dead. It is probable that she will be sent to Martha's home despite her protests.

DECATUR'S SCHOOL COUNT SHOWS NOTABLE FACTS

The recent school census in Decatur showed several notable features.

Decatur has a hundred more school children than any other Georgia town of equal size.

There are only two white children in Decatur between the ages of six and fourteen that have not been in school during the past twelve months.

Decatur hasn't a single illiterate white child.

The total number of children of school age in Decatur is 820.

Davis Made Sheriff

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

VIENNA, Ga., June 13.—H. O. Davis, of Dooly, was elected sheriff Thursday to fill the unexpired term of C. L. Bennett. The election was a quiet one. The total county vote was as follows: C. A. Joiner 326, H. O. Davis 354, J. C. Slade 172, T. T. Thombly 26, Mr. F. McCormick 41, Hugh McGough 129.

DIVORCE COURT JUDGE ORDERS BIGAMY PROBE

Plaintiff in Divorce Suit Relates Story That Evokes Ellis' Order

Superior Court Judge W. D. Ellis, on Friday ordered an investigation of the record of B. F. Ragsdale, a divorce defendant, against whom bigamy charges were made in open court by Mrs. Dottie Ragsdale, his wife.

Mrs. Ragsdale, who appeared to take a first verdict against her husband on the ground of cruel treatment, on the stand told Judge Ellis that Ragsdale had married her when she was but sixteen years old, lived with her thirteen days, and left her, admitting he had a wife in Rome, Ga.

"This man should be dealt with by the grand jury," said Judge Ellis, "rather than considered defendant in this court.

"A man who deliberately would marry a child sixteen years old when he had another wife, should be sent to the penitentiary for life. This is a case the solicitor general should look into."

Mrs. Ragsdale told the jury she had married Ragsdale on October 18, 1909, and that he had left her October 31, 1909, without provocation. She said that he told her just before he left that he had a wife living in Rome, from whom he had never been divorced.

Since his departure from Atlanta, she said, she had been unable to find his whereabouts.

Her attorney told the court that he had made a superficial investigation, but had been unable to locate Ragsdale.

"The whole proceeding amounts to a serious thing, whether or not Ragsdale is guilty of bigamy," said Judge Ellis, "to marry a child like that and then desert her in thirteen days, with a story of another wife, well might be judged seduction."

NEGRO GOES TO PEN FOR STEALING PARCELS POST

Will Stokes, a negro porter at the Terminal station, was Friday morning found guilty by a jury in the United States court of stealing parcels post mail, and Judge Newman sentenced him to serve two years in the Atlanta federal prison. Mail being repeatedly missed, the government inspectors began to watch the station as well as the postoffice, and a search of Stokes' house discovered a quantity of stolen goods.

BUILDING PERMITS HAVE INCREASED IN DECATUR

May was Decatur's record month in building activity, $40,380 in permits being taken out during that month. This sum includes a permit of $22,000 for the new school building, but without that amount the record was considered exceptionally good.

The total permits for the first five months of 1913 are $89,820. This is an increase over the same period of last year of about 35 per cent.

PRESIDENT BREAKS RULE TO RECEIVE J. K. ORR

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 13.—J. K. Orr, of Atlanta, was received by special appointment at the White House this afternoon, where he had a pleasant interview with President Wilson. Mr. Orr stopped off unexpectedly in Washington en route to New York, and expressed a desire to renew acquaintances with Mr. Wilson. Although the president had left orders that no engagements be made for the day, the rule was abrogated in favor of Mr. Orr when the president learned of his presence in Washington through Senator Hoke Smith.

DECATUR'S "AD" LANDS A 5- AND 10-CENT STORE

The value of newspaper advertising to a town is being proven in Decatur. On Saturday C. R. Ferrell will open the doors of his new store to the public of Decatur and surrounding territory. He will handle a modern line of five and ten-cent store articles.

A five and ten-cent store was one of the things that Decatur, through its board of trade, advertised for and it has been secured.

MARRIED TWENTY YEARS; NOW ASKS FOR DIVORCE

Asserting that she withdrew a former suit for divorce and returned to her husband on his promises to treat her with consideration, only to be met again with cruelty, Mrs. Daisy B. Bixby filed suit for divorce Friday against Samuel E. Bixby, an electrician employed at the federal prison.

Mrs. Bixby told the court that she was married in 1892 and endured her husband's abuse for years, leaving him in 1906 only when he had threatened to choke her to death, and actually had choked her, she says. Then she filed suit for divorce but withdrew it because of his pleadings.

Sh easked the court for alimony and the custody of her three children.

Six finely trained boxers, all anxious to get into action at the auditorium-armory in the boxing show tonight, completed training yesterday and are waiting for the sound of the gong.

Atlanta boxing followers, who are lucky enough to be in the armory, should be well repaid. Seldom, perhaps never before, has such an array of talent been crowded into one arena as there will be at this show.

Jim Savage and Sailor White, the windup boxers, are without a doubt two of the best heavyweights before the public today. They are billed to go ten rounds and the winner is sure to know he has been through a mill. It is to be a bout between a clever fellow, Savage, and a slugger, White. Fellows of this sort nearly always put up one grand mill, and this bout will be no exception.

Savage is well known to local boxing fans, having battled here before. His great exhibition against Al Kubiak is still remembered. He is the holder of a grand pair of hands and is a second Jim Corbett in action. The latter is a great admirer of Savage and expects to see him reach the top of the heap some of these fine days.

Savage realizes the fact that he must start now or never, and the clever lad will surely battle for his life tonight. He knows that White is a tough nut, but those are the kind Savage likes to battle.

Although White has not boxed in the south he needs no introduction to those who have been following the pugilistic game. In New York, where he has been doing most of his boxing, he is being heralded as another Sharkey. His swinging style of boxing is the kind the fans like to see. It is a case of either being knocked out or putting the other fellow away with the Sailor. He does not believe in spending much time in fiddling around for an opening. His record stands for itself. Any fellow who can defeat such giants as Al Palzer and Arthur Pelky must be some battler. Sailor did and says he will do it again after his battle with Savage.

The next bout in importance on the card is the set-to between Mike Saul and Terry Nelson. Saul is anxious to start his come-back career with a victory, and has trained like a Trojan for the bout. If victor over Nelson, he will go after the bigger stars in his division. If defeated, Mike will have to quit the game for good. Mike knows this better than any one, and he can be counted on to do some real milling. He looks great, and says he feels better than ever in his life.

Nelson is a tough bird. He is one of those fellows who never knows when he has enough. Although he may never become a champion, the fans still like to see him in action. He is an aggressive sort of a boy and does not believe in stalling. Some scrap this should be for a semi-windup.

The other battle is to be a ten-round engagement between Meyer Pries and Spider Britt. This is to be the seventh set-to between the bantams, and honors are even up to date. Each is out for a victory tonight. Meyer says he will hop the town if defeated, and Spider threatens to quit the game if he fails to put Pries away. A grand scrap this should be.

With all this milling on one card fans should see enough real battling to last them for months. The promoters are looking for a banner house and it looks as if they won't be disappointed.

The first bout will be put on at 8:30 sharp. The boxers will all be on the battle ground an hour before the start, so that the fans will not be forced to wait. Tickets for the show are on sale at Shepherd's cigar store, at 24 Edgewood avenue.

Favors Division

WAYCROSS, Ga., June 13.—While it is thought locally that the Waycross team in the Empire league can come out ahead in the race, this city will hardly make any objection to the proposed division of the season at the meeting of the Empire directors at Cordele. Just at present the local team is going good, despite the crippled condition, and it is only a matter of a few games before Waycross gets at the top. However, a division of the season will make the contest more interesting all over the league.

"HOME RUN TWINS" BIG HELP IN WINNING FOR PHILLY TEAM

The "Home Run Twins," that's what they call Sherwood Magee and "Gabby" Cravath, the slugging outfielders of the pace-making Phillies, who are leading the National league just as if being in front of the Giants, Cubs and Pirates was an every-day affair.

Time and again this spring Magee or Cravath or both of them have broken up games with home runs, sending home men ahead of them and winning games for Bill Looker's club.

Magee has been a great major league batsman for years. Cravath has been one of those who starred in the minors, but he didn't suit big league managers until Charley Dooln saw him. This was last year, and Slugger Cravath has been a Phil ever since. Magee, Cravath and Paskert comprise the best outfield in the league today.

CONZELMAN PROVED GOOD

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 13.—Atlanta has about gotten the Chicago one-inning batting rally habit, in their game here Thursday they had apparently lost the game when in the fifth inning with the score 4 to 1 in favor of the home club, Atlanta got busy and started something off of Grimes. Up to that inning he had pitched extra good ball, but it was in that box that the Crackers got next to him. He, however, started his own downfall by passing three men and forcing in Welchonce, who had singled just before. After passing these men he tightened up, but not enough, and the Crackers got on to him for a single and a double by Agler and Dunn, the result being five runs for the Crackers.

Conzelman was there with the goods in every department, and pitched jamb-up ball. He often-got three balls on a batter, but then he would tighten up and did not allow a single free pass the whole game. He was not backed by the best support, a fly muffed by Long and a bum throw by Bisland contributing to the four runs that the Lookouts secured. Grimes was not hear so good, and was off all the game, but his support was nearly perfect. Street gave him great support, throwing out three would-be stealers.

Dent or Brady for Atlanta, and Summers for Chattanooga, will be the probable hurlers for today's game.

COBB'S WORK

Cobb was not much in evidence in the game with New York on Thursday. He was able to get only one hit out of four times up, and as a result his favorite average took another drop. This average thing is something that Cobb and the whole country is proud of, and if he allows his aristocratic average to go down in the plebian class of .350, the whole baseball world will be shocked. His figures for the season are:

Player.	G.	A.B.	H.	R.	P.C.

The Kentucky State fair at Louisville has offered the largest prize ever put up at a horse show, $2,000 for a competition among fine gaited saddle horses there in September.

Dent to Work For Atlanta

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 13.—The second game of the series between the Crackers and Chattanooga will be played this afternoon and the game should be a good one, if yesterday's exhibition is a forerunner of what is to come today. The Crackers have won eight games and lost only one to the oLokouts, and with the team strengthened by the addition of new men it is highly probable that the going will be good.

The weather is fair and cold, but not too much so. The mams in Chattanooga generally play a great deal better ball when the weather is just about what it is now. Sommers and Street will be on the firing line for the Lookouts, while Dent and Dunn will do the work for the visitors.

Judge Moore Wins Private Coach Event

EVERYBODY IS GOING TO THE STAR GAME

Atlanta promises to have a big delegation on hand in Athens on Saturday, when the Georgia alumni team meets the 1912 University baseball nine. It is the biggest game of the year and everyone who can get any time off from work will surely be on hand.

Just imagine such rare sport as seeing Whitey Martin chasing a hot grounder and his attempt to bend over far enough to make the pick-up. Think of Charley Cox trying to pitch for full nine innings and paint a picture of Dozier Bowles walking up and down the side lines with a water bucket. It all now sounds funny but to see it will real sport.

MOTOR RACES SATURDAY AFTERNOON

In an effort to slip something across on the weather man Jack Prince has made one final shift of his dates for his opening motordrome program and the races are on for Saturday afternoon, beginning at 4 o'clock.

Drome racing in Atlanta was not intended as a daylight sport. But with the ball team out of the city and nothing doing on Saturday afternoon it seemed too good an opportunity to let slip. With the ordinary June weather it might be a bit too hot for comfort at 4 o'clock. But since April has transformed some of its weather to June the thing ought to so strong.

The full card, just as originally scheduled for the opening night, will run off Saturday afternoon. The events will be the Atlanta swee stakes, the motordrome purse and special event. Nine races in all will be run.

Whether a better speed will be shown at the afternoon meet than would be possible at night can't be determined. The illumination of the sun, is, of course, a trifle better for riding than any artificial light could possible be. At the same time the motors work better at night than they do in the daytime and that makes a big difference. Anyhow, speeds of ninety miles an hour and perhaps better are practically certain for the riders have been doing it regularly in practice and will ride faster than ever before, with the chance to make some money by doing it.

If the riders hit ninety miles an hour they will flash past the spectators every ten seconds, for they will circle the track four times in forty seconds. And speed like this on a track banked almost vertical, offers chances for excitement the like of which is seldom to in any sport in the world.

The riders are ready—and more—for this meet. They have been hanging around for weeks, with nothing to do but tune up their motors, and there is not a man in the lot who would not gladly risk his neck just to break the monotony. The board track racers do not value their necks very high anyway, or they would not be in the game. But right now, with money extremely tight and after a long period of inactivity, they can be counted on for neck-risking schemes that they would not tackle under ordinary circumstances.

Every precaution will be taken to insure the safety of the riders. They will be examined by the track physician before the races start and they will be instructed by the referee against taking unnecessary chances. Manager Hudson is anxious to get through the season without any bad accidents and is taking every precaution to reduce to a minimum the dangers of this extra hazardous calling.

All arrangements made for the night meet will stand for this one. Twenty-five cents will admit the spectators to the infield, where rough seats have been provided for them. The stands, which are around the outside of the track, are the reserved seats, at four bits. Negroes will be provided for in a separate enclosure in the infield.

HOW CLUBS PLAY TODAY

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 13.—Acrobats for Birmingham and Nashville will put forth every effort to win the second game of the present series today and a sharp contest is anticipated. Nashville is determined to retrieve yesterday's loss. Weather clear. Batteries: Sloan and Mayer for Birmingham; Beck or Williams and Gibson for Nashville.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 13.—Returning to the home grounds after a swing around the circuit, the locals will begin a series of games with the Montgomery team today. Liebhardt and Seabough will be the battery for Memphis, while Case and Gribbens will occupy the same position for the visitors. The weather is clear and pleasant.

NEW ORLEANS, June 13.—The Southern league leaders, Mobile, and the tailenders, New Orleans, opened a three-game seris today. The weather was clear and pleasant. Manager Finn announced Southpaw Campbell and Schmidt as his batterymen. Manager Frank will depend upon McIntyre and Angermier to make a respectable showing for his club. Catcher Adams, struck just below the heart by a pitched ball in yesterday's game, was reported much better and may get in the game Saturday.

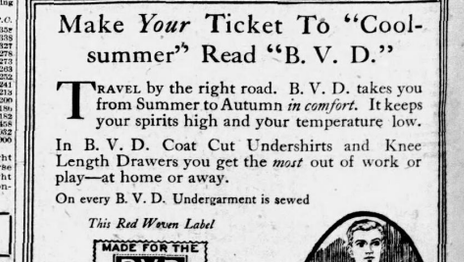
Lithonia Club Wins

NEWBORN, Ga., June 13.—Lithonia defeated the fast Newborn team by the score of 7 to 0. Reagin, the star pitcher for Lithonia, only gave up five hits, all scattering. Evans caught a classy game and got three safe hits. Lithonia played classy ball and did not make an error.



Two Wins in Three Starts at Birmingham and Easy Victory Over Chattanooga—The Team Seems to Have Started

With every member of the club in good spirits the Atlanta club has now begun to play real baseball. Manager Smith and Captain Alperman have gotten the boys together in jam up style and as one o The players recently expressed it "the Crackers are going from here."

In the last four games the Crackers have won three and lost one and the loss of this fray was not due to any bum hurling but to bad errors. Two of the three wins were over Birmingham while the third was taken from Chattanooga. In all the whole Cracker delegation played a jam up class of ball, the batters hitting in true form while the pitchers cut loose the class of ball which wins games.

All along it has been figured that Atlanta is represented by a really strong ball club, the many losses being charged to the wildness of the flingers. Now this deafet has been smoothed over and there is not the least reason why the boys should not "Go from here" as was expressed by one member of the club.

In the last two games the Cracker flingers have not given up a base on balls, both Price and Conzelman going the route without flickering. This gives the other players on the club added confidence and they are able to play a better class of ball. However, when the hurler is continually walking batters it gets the other boys up in the air, just as it hurts a hurler when his backers continually make errors.

Just a few statistics of the past four games will show how well the Crackers have been going this week, and on foreign soil. In the four games the club has scored 17 runs on 35 hits while th ervial teams have gotten away with 13 runs on 24 hits. The batting average for the Atlanta team in the four games is .278 while for the rivals it is just .190. This average of .278 on the road is marvelously high and will win most any number of ball games. It is in excess of the Crackers' team average for the year and as Bill Smith's bunch is topping the league when it comes to flinging the willow.

At fielding the bunch has been slightly off. The eight errors in the 162 chances has served to bring the average down to .952 while the rival bunches fielded .95.

Mackmen Show Up the Naps

Connie Mack and his bunch of champs after winning fifteen straight games, lost the game Wednesday, but came back strong Thursday in the game with Cleveland and won easily with Plank in the box, by the score of 6 to 1. Mack has a great team this year and is going after the flag in the get-there-quick style. The pitchers are going away above the average and he thinks that the whole team is better than ever before.

HOW GAMES WERE WON

Philadelphia was there with the goods Thursday and easily won from St. Louis by the score of 7 to 5. Alexander was strong at critical times and held up under the strain. Philadelphia hit Burke and Steele freely. The batting of Alexander was the feature of the game, the big right-hander making two runs and driving in three. He got three hits out of four times up. McGee also got three out of four times up.

The St. Louis Americans also suffered defeat Thursday, this time at the hands of the Boston club, the final count being 3 to 2 in favor of the Champs. Timely hitting and good pitching by Bedient were the causes of the victory. Yerkes got his second double in the eighth inning and scored the winning run on Gardner's single to left.

Five error on the part of the New Yorkers came very near giving Tesreau another defeat Thursday in the game with Pittsburg. The whole Giant team fielded badly, but hit hard and opportunely and won the game by the score of 6 to 5. Fletcher and Wagner were the batting stars of the game, they getting three hits out of four times up. New York made five errors and thirteen hits, while Pittsburg played errorless ball and got eleven hits.

New York won from the Detroit Tigers in the ninth inning Thursday. With two men out Hartsell doubled to left and Caldwell, running for him, scored a minute later on Milkie's single. Lake and Schultz had a very pretty pitchers' battle, the honors being about evenly divided.

Chicago got next to Nap Rucker Thursday, getting thirteen hits and won the game easily from Brooklyn by the score of 6 to 1. Humphries was in fine form and held the Brooklyn boys to six hits. Five out of the nine men on the Chicago machine got two hits apiece. Only two of Brooklyn's hits were bunched. These, with the aid of a sacrifice fly, saved them from a shut-out.

Cleveland Thursday lost to Philadelphia by the score of 6 to 1. Plank had the other team blanked until the ninth, when Jackson, layed against the ball for a home run into the left field bleachers. Falkenberg pitched good ball, except in the sixth. McInnis got three hits out of four times up. Philadelphia played errorless ball, while Cleveland made three.

A triple play by Maranville and Myers, of Boston, put a decidedly quick ending to the game with Cincinnati Thursday. Almeida and Groh had singled when Berghammer drove a line fly to short, who stepped on second base and then threw to first, retiring the runner there. Almeida was a big hit with the stick, getting three hits out of four times up.

Wit ha man on second, Morgan, for Washington, drove out a double Thursday in the game with Chicago and won the game by the score of 5 to 4. Chicago went after Groom hard, but he settled down and won his game. Both teams made a pair of errors, and the hits were divided in the crap shooters' proportion, Chicago getting seven and Washington getting eleven.

IN ADDITION TO WHICH—
Lives of Polo blokes remind us
How to leave that stuff alone;
Or, departing leave behind us
Splints upon our collar bone.

"The mills of the gods grind slowly," some one has almost said, "but in the end they deliver the goods." In place of attempting to squeeze gore out of a turnip Frank Chance decided to exchange the turnip for something containing a bit of gore. He hasn't landed yet but he is on his way and those watching him have had the patience to sit and wait; which is all that he ever asked. The rest will come in due time. If the art of managing men means what we believe it means—which is 60 per cent of any championship club.

The best manager in the world can't dig a hole for a flag pole without the proper tools—but given time and the coin he can get the tools. Which is the answer.

FOR THE GERMANS.

Having curbed the Australian invasion, the American tennis team is now set for the German flare-up preparatory to entering the Davis cup semi-finals. The idea of a stolid German pattering about as a tennis champ has never struck us beofre but with a Schmidt conquering a Jock at St. Andrews we are prepared to fall for it. Especially as we understand the German team is one of the best among the Seven Nations with a fair chance to land in front.

We haven't seen the German team but if it can trim Red McLoughlin and Kid Williams (ringing in what their monickers would be in baseball) the Teutonic ensemble must be the Athletics of the court.

For, you can take it from any one who saw the recent International matches, America has no bosom-harassing heart throbs over what her selections will offer later on. Win or lose they'll be there with kick and the side-swipe to a finish. Which is also the answer.

A gentleman with the service McLoughlin carries and that color scheme in hair can be depended upon to go the full distance and arrive among those who belong.

They collared Cy Falkenberg at last but it took them two months to roll him back. All of which isn't so bad for an athlete who a year ago was discarded from the Big Show and branded unfit for further service. Out of eleven games he hasn't allowed over two runs in nine of them which is a fair enough answer as to the worth of his work.

SOME NEW SLANG

The latest thing in up-to-date slang is said to be "Whatter you mean you lost your dog?"

If this gets over why not extend the play—i. e. viz. "Whatter you mean you found your cat?"—"Whatter you mean you swallowed a snake?" and so on until some kind friend steps up and poisons you before it gets worse. "I should worry" was bad enough—and "I got you Steve" was bordering on the limit. But this last closes the show. There's nothing left to go beyond it. It's the place where the portcullis drops and the drawbridge is lifted.

BEYOND THE NIGHT.

The city lights are bright with flame where up and down the street
The city's gleam flares up the way for countless drifting feet;
And yet, I often sway, where through a window pane
A dim, old-fashioned candle light shines down a country lane.

The city has a thousand songs—a multitude to sing;
A thousand voices sweep the night where dim cathedrals ring;
And yet I often turn away where all the morning through
A mocking bird calls back to me across the silver dew.

The city has a mighty voice—a siren voice that calls
Where Fame is pleading night and day within her star-crowned walls;
And yet I often trot away, where in the fading light
A waiting mother used to call her boy in from the night.

In the meanwhile the "runaway race" which John J. McGraw and F. Clarke were to unfurl on the National league is still taking its time getting launched. If they are waiting for the Phillies to come back they may delay the dizzy spurt even longer. In fact it may be a week or two yet before the Giants and Pirates decide to draw away from the field and leave the other six clubs flat upon their anguished backs.

AUGUST BELMONT WATCHING RACE AT BELMONT TRACK

NEW YORK, June 13.—When racing in New York was revived at Belmont Park, Decoration day, the 30,000 lovers of the game who visited the track thanked August Belmont, the owner and millionaire banker, more than any other man in the state. He had done more to revive the sport than any other persons. Not only that, but he watched every race carefully, and wit hthe same interest as those who know less about horse racing.

Governor William Sulzer threatened to call out the militia if there was evidence of betting; but nothing of the kind was seen. oHwever, it is not likely that the bookmakers will neglect such a rich field and within a short time they will be making efforts to take bets on the track. Then a clash with the state authorities will come.

Browns Can't Transfer An Injured Player

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 13.—The National baseball commission in a finding promulgated declared the transfer of player Olson from the St. Louis American league club to the San Francisco club of the Pacific Coast league null and void and ordered the former club to reimburse the San Francisco club for expenses incurred. This was on account of the bad condition in which the player reported to the San Francisco club. He was ill and not fit to play baseball.

POLO TEAM IS NAMED

NEW YORK, June 13.—The Polo association announced Thursday that L. F. Stoddard, who took "Monty" Waterbury's place when Waterbury was injured in the game with the British challengers last Tuesday, would be in the line-up for the second game next Saturday. Waterbury will not be in the game because of his broken finger, and Larry Waterbury, his brother, who played No. 1, will be shifted to No. 2. Stoddard will play at No. 1. There will be no other changes.

The line-up announced by the association is:

No. 1—Stoddard.
No. 2—Larry Waterbury.
No. 3—Harry Payne Whitney.
No. —Devereaux Milburn.

The challengers, it is said, have practically decided to substitute F. M. Freake for Captain Noel Edwards at No. 2. Mr. Freake was on the British team in the matches with America in 1900, 1902 and 1909. It was in the last named year that the American team regained the cup.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

SOREHEAD

FROM now until the first of November is the time that we will be troubled with the dreaded disease, sorehead, one thing that possibly discourages more people in the south from raising chickens and when it appears gives one about as much trouble as anything I know of. It can so easily be prevented if precautions are used. Of all the things the United States government should take up and thoroughly go to the bottom of it is this dreaded sorehead. It is just as important for the poultry industry as tick eradication or hog cholera preventive is worth to the live stock industry. There could, I believe, some method be had by which this disease could be prevented by inoculation, and eventually I believe it will be done. It is given up by most authorities that the cause of sorehead is the thicking of the blood during changeable weather in early fall or late summer and is a blood disease similar to measles or smallpox. We know that when a chicken once has it, they never have it again, and it breaks up similar to smallpox.

The best and surest way to prevent this trouble is to begin in June and give on Tuesday of each week one tablespoonful of Epsom salts to every ten to fifteen chickens (frying size.) This should be dissolved in warm water and mixed in soft feed to be sure that the chickens get it. They do not like to drink water with salts in it or eat dry feed with it in it. Therefore they should be hungry and it should be fed in a wet mash. On each day of sulphur should be given in soft

Friday of each week the same amount of sulphur should be added to their feed, but during wet weather or damp spells the sulphur should be omitted and the salts substituted. A person should use judgment in this respect and if too much salts is given to physic the chickens too freely it should be reduced, the main object being to keep the blood purified and thoroughly cleansed from June until November. By this method the system is kept pure and impurities will pass out with the excretion, and unless this is done the chickens will have high fever and if they did not break out in sores over the head the fever would kill them. If it should happen to appear in your flock you should get to work immediately and physic them every other day until their blood is purified. Get one pint of raw linseed oil and add to it one ounce of pure carbolic acid, start with the well chickens and bathe the heads of every chicken, the well ones and those that have the disease. If this is done in time usually two applications will cure it, but it is far better to avoid it rather than have to doctor every chicken.

Sorehead almost always leaves the chicken with a cold, which will go into roup unless checked in time. By using permanganate of potash in the drinking water, or Conkey's Roup Cure or any of the other preparations that can be had conveniently it will prevent the spreading of the disease in your flock of fowls. Diseases of all kinds are usually carried through the drinking water more easily than in any other way. Therefore it should be kept pure. When a sick chicken dies the tendency is to throw it out on the water trough, and it will become contaminated. This is why it is a good idea to use antiseptics in the drinking water when any disease appears and they should be fed better than ever plenty sound, wholesome grain as it will help strengthen the system more than soft feed or any other kind. Good feeding and sufficient nourishment will do more to throw off diseases and help cure sick chickens than all the medicine that can be given. If this treatment is carried out you will not likely have much trouble with sorehead, and it should not be neglected but thoroughly looked after every season. The loss from this one cause runs into thousands of dollars all over the south, and could be avoided if these precautions are used.

Yours very truly,

QUESTIONS ASKED AND ANSWERED.

QUESTION.

Adairsville, Ga.

I am interested in your article published in The Atlanta Journal last week on "Inoculation." I calculate to sow about twenty-five acres in peas for the purposes of making hay. Will thank you for information on inoculating the seed. This is altogether new to me. I wrote you sometime ago regarding the planting of Nooster potatoes. You sent me formula for fertilizing. Will thank you now to tell me the best time to plant them, also how many bushels it will require to plant an acre. Will thank you in advance for this information.

G. M. B.

ANSWER.

It will pay you to inoculate the peas with nitro-culture. In fact, this is the cheapest form of fertilizer that anyone can use. When this bacteria is usually distributed on all seed of the legume crop it helps them to store a wonderful amount of nitrogen in the soil and prepare it for a heavy yield following. You can get the bacteria, enough for five acres for $9.00 of Southern Inoculine Labatories, Box No. 541, Atlanta, Ga. They manufacture this bacteria for both peas and alfalfa and have it made up fresh, oftwever, it keeps perfectly for six months, prepared as they do it. I am glad to know someone in Atlanta is manufacturing this product and it makes it convenient for the people of the South to get it. It is a wonderful discovery and means thousands of dollars to the farming public who will use it. Immediately after this is placed on the peas, or seed of any kind, and as soon as they are placed in the ground they will begin to draw freely the nitrogen from the air, and instead of the plants being weak and unthrifty every one will grow and make a heavy yield and store in the soil an abundance of the most valuable element, which is nitrogen. They can furnish this preparation promptly for either peas or alfalfa.

Atlanta, Ga.

ANSWER.

Your letter received and a duck book would have been mailed you immediately if you had given your name and address. Many people write me letters, leave off their name and address and often many letters are never answered on this account. Send me your name and I will mail you a duck book immediately.

QUESTION.

I am very much interested in your articles in The Journal on poultry. One information a few days ago on Runner Ducks to an answer to a gentleman in Smyrna, Ala., and you sent him a book on Indian Runner Ducks. Will you kindly tell me through your paper where I can or how I can get one of these books?

W. L. B.

Atlanta, Ga.

ANSWER.

Your letter received and a duck book would have been mailed you immediately if you had given your name and address. Many people write me letters, leave off their name and address and often many letters are never answered on this account. Send me your name and I will mail you a duck book immediately.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Forrest Avenue Investment Parcel Brings $9,500 Cash. Roswell Road and Brookhaven Sales—Consideration in A., B. & A. West Side Purchase Was $100,000, and Not $25,000—Real Estate Barbecue to Be Given Saturday

A Forrest avenue sale was featured in real estate announcements of Friday.

Russell C. Johnson of the Clark & McBride agency, has sold for the Jake Moore estate to W. W. Ward, a parcel on Forrest avenue, facing Butler street, for $9,500 cash.

The property consists of two stores on Forrest avenue with a dwelling in the rear on a lot 44x149. The property brings a rental of $106 a month. It is known as Nos. 130-2 Forrest avenue.

OTHER SALES.

The Burdett Realty company has sold for J. M. Moore to an out of town customer lot 29 of the almshouse subdivision on the Roswell road south of Plaster's bride road, for $2,500.

The same agency sold for Mrs. David W. Meadow to a client a lot 100x240 on West Brookhaven drive, facing the Brookhaven country clubh for a consideration not named.

WEST SIDE CONSIDERATION.

In the announcement of the purchase by the A. B. and A. railroad of several parcels on Foundry, Magnolia and nearby streets on the west side, it was stated that the consideration was $25,000. As a matter of fact the consideration was $100,000.

Judge Pardee of the federal court has not yet signed the petition of the road for the right to buy this property, but it is believed he will shortly.

BARBECUE SATURDAY.

Members of the Atlanta Real Estate board will on Saturday enjoy a barbecue at Cold Springs. The festivities will be started at 1 o'clock, and there will be a big attendance.

Members can take the East Point car and get off at Ware street right at the rose grounds.

There will be a choice assortment of eatables and drinkables, and the outdoor celebration will afford a novel form of entertainment.

SHIP TRUST PROBE FINDS COMBINATION

Competition Between Coastwise Steamship Lines of America Eliminated

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Chairman Alexander, of the house ship trust investigating committee, making public the first three volumes of the committee's proceedings today, declared they contained evidence that competition between coastwise lines had practically been eliminated and that all established lines from American ports were in "agreements."

"In the domestic trade," said Mr. Alexander, "agreements between steamship lines to regulate competition do not play nearly so prominent a part as in the foreign trade. But numerous methods may be used to accomplish the same purpose and the committee is aware of at least thirty which have been, or are being used, to control competition between water carriers in the domestic trade.

"In the trade with foreign ports, the committee found at least seventy-six agreements or understandings whose purpose was to fix and maintan rates, regulates the traffic and in many instances pool the business. These agreements govern nearly all the regular lines operating in various branches of the American foreign trade to Europe, Africa, South America and the Carribean district.

"Practically all the lines serving both the Atlantic and Pacific seaboard of the United States are members of the conference or work in co-operation through written agreements or oral understandings."

Congress Isn't Afraid of Any "Thirteen" Hoodoo

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Congress is not afraid of any "13" hoodoo.

The house, marking time on tariff and currency, transacted no important business today, and the journal of its proceedings recorded that it adjourned at "12:13 o'clock on Friday, June 13, 1913."

Sticklers for accuracy insisted the adjournment was at 13 minutes and 13 seconds past noon.

CAR REPAIRER CRUSHED UNDER FALLING CAR

T. A. Pattrello, employed as a car repairer by the Southern railway, was seriously injured in the yards of the company Thursday morning. With several others he was at wor kremoving a set of trucks from beneath a box car. The latter had been jacked up clear of the ground.

Suddenly the supoprts gave way, and the heavy bed of the car fell. Pettrello was caught beneath and crushed. He was taken to the Atlanta hospital in Patterson's ambulance. Doctors said that he had sustained a fracture of the back and possible internal injuries.

MRS. GILBERT IS KILLED ON WAY TO MEET FRIEND

MACON, GA., June 12.—Mrs. J. M. Gilbert, widow of the late J. M. Gilbert, was instantly killed at her home in Danville, thirty miles below Macon on the M., D. & S. railroad, this morning at 10 o'clock, when she attempted to run across the track in front of passenger train No. 18, bound for Vidalia. Her body was mangled to bits beneath the engine. She was forty-five years of age and one o fthe most prominent women of Twiggs county.

Mrs. Gilbert had gone to the station to meet a friend, when she met her tragic death.

25 Lots in Ansley Park Annex

Are Going

AT AUCTION

At this time history—real estate history—will repeat itself. Everybody knows what happened after every other auction of Ansley Park lots. Those who know say the same thing will happen again.

Thousands upon thousands of dollars were made for purchasers. Values have steadily climbed and are still climbing. This is the one section of residential Atlanta where doubt as to the future does not exist.

Ansley Park Annex has been developed in the same high-class manner which made Ansley Park famous. Every one of these 25 lots is high and overlooks Ansley Park. Many of them front on North Boulevard.

These lots are in a section within a mile or a mile and a half from three tracts which have been bought for development within the next few years by some of Atlanta's wealthiest men. It is the logical property. It has profits concealed in it.

Put the date down—Thursday, next Thursday, June 19. Remember the date as one which will increase your bank account if you attend the auction. Sidetrack every other engagement and go out. Twenty-five lots are going to make money for as many people. Be one of the twenty-five.

HOUSE SPLIT ON FORM OF CURRENCY REFORM

Democrats Favor Reform but Are Undecided on Which Plan to Adopt

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 13.—There is a growing feeling among members of the house against any proposition to bind them in caucus to any one plan of currency reform. Just how widespread this feeling is and just how it will affect the administration program is a matter of conjecture.

Judging from the trend of remarks heard today, it seems certain that at the house caucus to be called June 25, the sentiment will not lack outspoken advocates and may perhaps become an issue of large importance. Those who are working for the program now include Representatives Robert L. Henry, of Texas, chairman of the rules committee; Foster of Illinois, and Townsend of New Jersey.

As yet conjecture and a stray word heer and there from members of the banking and currency committee, have constituted the sole index to the character of the currency bill that will finally be reported out.

The measure as reported to the caucus will undoubtedly bear the stamp of the administration's approval, but whether the same ironbound support that characterized the passage of the tariff bill will be expected from the house on its handling of the currency proposition is a question.

Those who so far have come out in the open in favor of no caucus pledges urge that from the very nature of the currency problem, no bill can be made hustled through on party lines. The problem, they say is purely one of economics, to which every member, no matter of what political faith, should give his best thought and study. In the case of the tariff, there were the time worn and distinct policies to guide legislation into channels purely partisan. With currency, they claim, no such restriction is present to necessitate use of the caucus rule.

The imminent currency reform has produced, of course, heightened interest in th emoney problem, and in support of their contention that the question is impossible of a through and through party division the no-pledge workers quote the dozen or more schemes that have found favor on capital hill. As it stands, the Democrats are pledged simply to currency reform, and are opposed to but one of the plans that have found or may find favor among Republicans—the Payne-Aldrich system.

Aside from the question of the caucus pledge the coming caucus will decide a problem of some interest in setting the date for the introduction of currency legislation. With the senate engrossed in tariff schedules, the work of the house for the remainder of the session depends on the caucus decision concerning currency. One prediction of the action of the coming caucus has it that the lower house, by continuance of the three-day adjournment plan, will again suspend active work until July 15.

MADDOX'S VIEW.

Currency reform was discussed at the cabinet meeting today in an effort to compose the differences of opinion among Democratic leaders on essential features.

It is said Secretary McAdoo and congressional leaders are not in full accord as to what extent the government should participate in the financial system. Secretary McAdoo is said to be in favor of the government issuing all currency, while Chairman Glass, of the house banking and currency committee is said to favor giving the proposed regional reserve associations the right to issue currency in place of the existing national bank notes.

OFFICERS TELL HOW NATIVES WERE REPULSED IN BATTLE

company, were killed. Captain Taylor A. Nichols was killed in the early morning fighting and it is a serious loss to the army. Amil and several leading outlaws reported killed.

Other Moro losses still unknown."

REASON FOR ATTACK.

A cablegram from Major General Bell not only explains the reason for the attack upon the Moros' stronghold but assumes responsibility with General Pershing. General Bell said:

"The fight at Bacsag was incident to the disarmament policy of the governor general, (Cameron Forbes) and the governor of the Moro province, adopted after many months of patient but fruitless negotiations and marked by promises, disregarded by the Moros. A situation arose that I believe left no alternative. Amil and a relatively small following occupying one ward of the island of Jolo were the only Moros who refused to give up their arms peacefully. Disarmament was generally desired by the Moros themselves. All of the rest surrendered their arms months ago without resisting. Under the circumstances it was impossible and unjust to the disarmed Moros to permit a few of them to retain arms."

The Moros' last stand was on the island of Jolo, not much larger than the District of Columbia. Datto Amil was a brigand and pirate preying upon the peaceful element of his own people.

General Pershing's report was made before the end of the battle and General Bell has called for details of the conclusion.

AD MEN TO MEET IN TORONTO NEXT YEAR

William Woodhead, of San Francisco, Elected President and Cherry Vice President

BY PAUL P. REESE.

BALTIMORE, June 13.—The ninth annual convention of the Associated Advertising Club of America finished its business today and adjourned to meet at Toronto next year. William Woodhead, of San Francisco, was elected president; Walter B. Cherry, of Syracuse, N. Y., vice president; P. S. Florea, of Indianapolis, secretary (selection), and T. D. Laquatte, of Des Moines, Iowa, treasurer.

More than 4,000 ad men and their than four thousand ad men and their ladies sat down at the Maryland dinner and enjoyed the open air cabaret show which followed at Gwynn Oak park Wednesday evening. The tables were in a huge circle with the big stage in the center. The affair was a splendid success, being one of the number of novel features of the very fine program of entertainment for the delegates to the convention.

Mayor Hockin, of Toronto, introduced a resolution Thursday authorizing the establishment of a department of city efficiency and town planning. Instantly there was a spirited debate.

Ivan E. Allen, president of the Atlanta convention bureau, favored the resolution along with a number of other delegates but many arose and voiced a protest against any city's boosting plank in the Ad club's platform.

Instances were cited where Ad clubs in a score of cities enlarged their scope so much that they had their hands in everything municipal. All around the hall delegates were clamoring for recognition to speak on the subject.

Some said that the interest of the Ad club in town planning would make the movement better and also improve communities by getting at the truth of all questions that confront municipalities. An equal number asserted that the scope of the advertising bodies should not be enlarged

The opponents of the measure won out on a voice vote and the resolution was tabled. This will not effect the Atlanta club, as there is a provision in the by-laws which makes boosting Atlanta one of the functions of the Ad Men's club.

Ex-President S. C. Dobbs, vice president and sales manager of the Coca Cola company, of Atlanta, and Fred E. Johnson, of Dallas, have been nominated and will constitute the south's representation on the executive committee.

The Atlanta delegation will disband Friday, some of them going directly home, while others will visit New York and other eastern points before returning to Atlanta.

Wilson Grants a Thirty Day Reprive To Condemned Man

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Though sentenced to die today Tony Milano, a condemned murderer will live to see the dawning of at least thirty more days through the clemency of President Wilson. The reprieve was granted because of some doubts as to Milano's sanity and to hear further evidence.

Milano was convicted of killing Harry Elton Smith, a small boy, and afterward seeking to wipe out evidences of the crime by burning the building in which the deed was committed.

The easy Resinol way to get rid of pimples

PIMPLES and blackheads disappear, unsightly complexions become clean, clear, and velvety, and hair health and beauty are promoted by the regular use of Resinol Soap and an occasional application of Resinol Ointment. These soothing, healing preparations do their work easily, quickly and at little cost, when even the most expensive cosmetics and complicated "beauty treatments" fail.

For 18 years Resinol has been a doctor's prescription and household remedy for eczema, ringworm, rashes and other skin eruptions, dandruff, burns, sores, etc. Stops itching instantly. Resinol Ointment (50c and $1) and Resinol Soap (25c) are sold by all druggists. For sample of each, write to Dept. 21-S, Resinol Baltimore, Md.

RHEUMATISM COMES FROM CONDITIONS WHICH CAN BE REMEDIED

But Local Applications on the Skin Cannot Get at the Cause of Your Suffering.

Just a bilious attack and a slight deposit of uric acid. Now calomel and similar mercurial purgatives do not dissolve and expel the uric acid sediment that forms from undigested, fermenting foods, and when this poisonous acid is not expelled it accumulates quickly, thickens the blood and settles in joints and muscles. The joints and muscles then become stiff.

An attempt to cure this rheumatism must be directed toward removing uric acid from blood and tissues, breaking up the crystalline urates already formed and preventing new deposits.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT is remarkably successful in the treatment of rheumatism. It dissolves uric acid out of the tissues, holds it in solution and expels it in the urine. It thoroughly cleanses the system of fermentation and purifies the blood. It will give prompt relief in all cases of rheumatism resulting from uric acid poisoning.

If you are suffering with rheumatism, try JACOBS' LIVER SALT immediately. It will relieve you more promptly and surely than anything else. Don't take an inferior substitute; some closely imitate the name, but none produces the same result. Insist on the genuine JACOBS' LIVER SALT 25c. If your druggist cannot supply you full size jar mailed upon receipt of price, postage free. Made and guaranteed by Jacobs' Pharmacy Co., Atlanta.—(Advt.)
